ROOSEVELT AND HOPKINS CONFER ON PURGE PLANS

WPA Head in Favor as Adviser.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt returned to the White House this evening from a week-end yachting cruise down Chesapeake Bay, during which he discussed the strategy of his attempted purge of the Democratic party. He consulted Harry L. Hopkins, dispenser of billions appropriated for relief and currently the President's No. 1 political adviser.

Harry L. Hopkins.

Great importance was attributed to the presence of Mr. Hopkins on the week-end yachting trip because of his recent activity in managing the White House campaign to purge the Democratic party of all except "yes men." Besides members of the White House clerical staf, the only other guests of the President were George Allen, a District of Columbia commissioner, and Mrs. Allen. Allen was invited because the President wants him to defer his proposed resignation.

Hopkins Supplants Corcoran.

Mr. Hopkins, the WPA administrator, has eclipsed Thomas G. [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran in recent weeks as adviser to the President in matters of political strategy. He has been acting under cover, but just as energetically, since his indorsement of Representative Otha D. Wearin against Senator Guy M. Gillette in the Iowa Democratic primary. That indorsement resulted in a senate explosion during which the Roosevelt administration was condemned for "playing politics with human misery."

During the President's cross country trip to San Diego, Cal., last month it was not the Democratic national committee [Mr. Farley was on his way to Alaska], but Mr. Hopkins, the man with the big money to spend, who kept him informed on political matters. Receiving reports from his WPA subordinates in Oklahoma, where Senator Elmer Thomas had received a Presidential pat on the back in his campaign for the Democratic renomination, Hopkins called the President's train by long distance telephone during the night of July 12 to report that Elmer was safe.

Rushes to President's Ship.

Mr. Hopkins did not wait for the President to debark at Pensacola, Fla., last Tuesday, but went out in a cutter to board the destroyer that brought him to shore. Hopkins advised the President constantly concerning the Georgia political situation until, on Thursday afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt made his startling assault upon Senator Walter F. George and told the voters of Georgia he wanted Lawrence Camp, a 100 per center, in the senate.

It was Hopkins also who advised the President that it would not be expedient to crack down on Senator Ellison D. Smith by name when he came through South Carolina. Hopkins reported that an attack upon Senator Smith, by name, might muddy the political waters for Mayor Burnet Maybank of Charleston, administration favorite in the gubernatorial race.

Pulls Punches on Smith.

The President therefore contented himself with a few kind words for Governor Olin D. Johnston, the administration candidate for senator, and slapped at Senator Smith by indirection only. He said he did not believe a family could live on 50 cents a day, sardonically alluding to a speech by Senator Smith on the wage and hour bill.

With the President back in Washington after a thorough exploration of the political scene with Mr. Hopkins, speculation turned to the future course of the White House vendetta. Definitly marked for the purge, according to well informed sources, are Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] and Rep. John J. O'Connor [D., N. Y.], chairman of the rules committee and LINKS PERKINS AID TO PLOT TO KEEP RED IN U. S.

Agent for Congress Sifts Bridges Case.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—The federal department of labor was accused today of scheming to keep Harry Bridges from being deported. Bridges is an alien and a C. I. O. leader. He is accused of being a communist. He is head of the radical seamen's union on the Pacific coast.

Harry Bridges.

The accusation against the labor department, headed by Secretary Frances Perkins, is made in a report to a special congressional committee by Edward Sullivan, one of its investigators. The committee is headed by Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.]. Its purpose is to find and expose un-American activities of all organizations operating in the United States.

Says Film Stars Aid Reds.

Sullivan told the committee that much of the money behind communistic activities on the west coast is supplied by film celebrities, who command huge salaries. The money was used, he said, to pay for sabotage against farming, shipping, and in airplane factories. Sullivan did not name any one, although he said the public should be told.

"All phases of radicalism are rampant among the studios of Hollywood," Sullivan said. "A large number of stars are opposed to subversive activity, but are afraid to speak. One star said if he spoke aloud a campaign of vilification would be started to ruin him."

"I can produce witnesses," Sullivan's report on Bridges said, "who can name the date when an official of the immigration service called Bridges to his office and read to him a secret letter from an official of the labor department. The letter told Bridges how to conduct himself in the future.

Charges Bridges' Foes Vanish.

"It also is possible to get the statement of witnesses who know of cases of attempted kidnaping carried out by those who surround Bridges. Evidence can be obtained that many men who opposed Bridges were among the missing."

Sullivan said two bands of communists are trying to get control of labor in the United States. Bridges' faction, he charged, is tied up with Stalin in Moscow. The other, according to Sullivan, is directed by Trotzkyists in Mexico. Harry Lundeberg, a naturalized Norwegian and foe of Bridges, was called the leader of the Trotzkyists.

A warant for the deportation of Bridges was sought last fall by the Seattle immigration office. Only the signature of Secretary Perkins was needed to start the case, but she refused and none of her assistants would. Last January a senate labor and commerce committee asked Secretary Perkins for the file on Bridges and she refused to show it.

Insist Record Is Removed.

A second demand produced the file a week later. Senators who saw it charged that part of Bridges' record had been removed.

Bridges is 37 years old. He was born in Melbourne, Australia, in 1901, the son of a real estate broker. Melbourne records show Bridges left home in 1920 to become a seaman. He arrived in San Francisco in 1923 and married a short time later.

Bridges applied for naturalization papers in New Orleans July 13, 1921, and said he entered the United States by deserting a ship in May, 1920. He failed to get final papers. In August, 1928, he applied for first papers in San Francisco and said he entered the United States in April, 1920. Nothing was said about deserting a ship. Ten years elapsed last week and Bridges still is not a citizen.

Similar Case Before Court.

A case similar to Bridges' is before the Supreme court. A federal court in New Orleans held that a man could not be deported because he was a communist.

Sullivan also reported to the committee that communistic activity is widespread in the field of youth and education on the Pacific coast.

Maniac Shoots Five at Police Rites; Is Slain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Charles San Filippo hated policemen and set out this afternoon to kill as many as possible. He wounded two policemen and three civilians. Then policemen's bullets ended his life.

San Filippo chose his hour to slay policemen when 250 of them were assembled in Central park to pay tribute to the memory of their dead. Two thousand spectators were seated about a band shell where the ceremonies were being conducted. Nearby, on the Mall, a wide, shaded path, hundreds of others were strolling.

A list of honored police dead had been read and a bugler was starting to blow taps when a shotgun roared in the hands of a man who had just left an automobile near the band shell.

Spectators Are Startled.

Startled spectators saw the man advance on the shell, a double barreled shotgun in one hand and an automatic shotgun in the other. He darted from tree to tree. Policemen shouted and women screamed. San Filippo saw a policeman and fired. Patrolman Francis Lynch fell.

Other policemen returned the fire, but they could not stop San Filippo. His chest and back were protected by sheets of bullet-proof steel, hung from his shoulders on wires. He continued to advance, firing as fast as he could.

Lieut. James P. McDonnell, the most decorated man in the department, was standing on stairs at the side of the shell. A shotgun blast peppered him. Another blast struck George Tighelaar in his abdomen and scattered shot hit John Benny and Louis Papernick, all civilian spectators.

20 Policemen Rush Maniac.

By this time about twenty policemen were advancing with drawn pistols toward San Filippo. He began to back away, still firing. Several police bullets grazed him. A policeman leaped upon San Filippo from the rear as others rushed up and shot him through his head.

"I was going to kill as many cops as I could and I did!" San Filippo gasped just before he died.

In his pockets police found two tickets for trafic violations and a letter denouncing policemen. The tickets and the letter supplied the motive for the crazy attack.

Police were sent to San Filippo's home in the Bronx to tell his family he was dead. They found the family seated about the coffin of San Filippo's father, Natale, who died last night.

After Cook was found guilty McKnight recommended he be paroled for 60 days to J. C. Broady, Democratic candidate for reelection as sherif.

HIGHEST BIDDER WINS VIVACIOUS BRIDE—FOR $6.40

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Gypsy brides are going at bargain prices this year.

A report from the annual gypsy festivities at Kraljevo, Serbia, said a vivacious brunet brought the highest bid of $6.40. Other brides went as low as $3.60 and $4.

These prices were considerably lower than those paid in previous years to parents of marriageable daughters. The marriage contracts are a feature of the festivities which are associated each year with the observance of orthodox St. John day.

Triplets Born 10 Minutes Apart; Weigh Pound Each

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—If George Yerks, 26 years old, had kept a diary while pacing the floor of the Williamsburg Maternity hospital in Brooklyn this morning it would have read like this:

3:40 a. m.—It's a girl!
3:50 a. m.—It's another girl!
4 a. m.—It's another girl!

That's the way it was. Mrs. Yerks, 25 years old, of Brooklyn, presented George with three girls. Their combined weight is only 3½ pounds, but all are doing well—in an incubator.

Doctor Bids 1,000 Babies to an Anniversary Party

Pilot Mound, Ia., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Dr. R. S. Shane will mark his 25 years of general practice in this community with a "baby party" next week. He has issued invitations to 1,000 babies he has delivered in a quarter century and their parents. First and second generation babies will be in attendance.

Death Rips Off a Mask to Tell of a Comeback

An elderly man faltered yesterday at Parkside avenue and Lake street. He fell. He was dead when the police arrived. His cards said he was George T. Gruber, 64 years old, of 701 North Waller avenue. But the initials tattooed on his arm were "P. F. M." The police were puzzled.

They went to his home. George F. Gruber was the name on the mailbox. The name of Peter F. McGovern was there too.

The kindly woman who answered the bell said she was Mrs. Gruber. Tears came to her eyes when the officers told her their mission. There was no use pretending any longer, she said. She was really Mrs. McGovern. The man who had died was her husband, Peter F. McGovern.

Breaks Rules; Gets Blacklisted.

"We were married in St. Louis 39 years ago," she said. "My husband broke the rules of the railroad. He lost his job. No railroad would give him another.

"In 1907 he came to Chicago. But the railroads wouldn't hire him here, either. He was blacklisted.

"Then he wrote me that he had found work, and sent me money to come to him. When I stepped off the train here, he told me:

"'Well, Annie, you'll have to use the name of Gruber now. I've changed my name so I could get a job. Met a fellow named Gruber who gave me his name and his identification papers. It wouldn't look right for you to have a different name.'

Assumed Name Brings Luck.

"We were lucky under the new name. He got to be yardmaster at the North Western railroad yards in Proviso. We had bad luck too. He got hurt. But he always had a job."

The two names on the mailbox? Mrs. McGovern said there was a reason. The railroad knew him as Gruber. But his union had known for all those years he was McGovern.

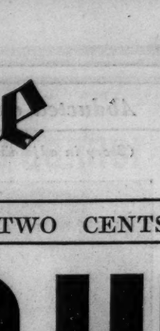
Often she has wondered, the widow said, if all the world didn't know her husband had stepped into another man's shoes.

Airy Joy Rider Steals Airlines' Passenger Bus

A seven passenger sedan-bus, operated by United Airlines between the loop and Chicago airport, was stolen last night in front of 16 East Monroe street. The driver, George Lund, said he had stepped inside the ticket office for 3 minutes. The big car was monogrammed on both sides with the company's name. A governor limited its maximum speed to 40 miles an hour.

Boy Killed on Sheridan Road as Brakes Fail

A little boy was killed and nine other persons were injured, four seriously, last night when a double deck bus plowed into a group of pedestrians and then plunged into two automobiles. The accident occurred at the terminal of the Chicago Motor Coach company, Sheridan road, Devon avenue, and Broadway.



Robert Soppeland.

Police and the bus driver, Robert Soppeland, 27 years old, 58 East Elm street, blamed the crash on defective braking power of the bus. Coach company officials declined to comment.

Tragic End to Outing.

The accident brought to a standstill the usual trafic bustle at the busy intersection. It brought a tragic ending to what had been a day's happy outing for the youngster who was killed and his smaller brother and a motherly neighbor woman, who were injured.

The bus involved in the tragedy had been standing empty in the terminal for several hours. Soppeland—who had not driven it in to the terminal—was ordered to take it to the Rosemont avenue garage. The bus was pointed west toward Sheridan road at the time.

Soppeland started the motor. Instantly the huge vehicle surged forward toward the boulevard. Police believe it had been left in gear. Soppeland jammed on the air brakes. They failed to hold.

The buses are so constructed that after they have stood for a long period, the motors must be permitted to run for several minutes to build up air power for the brakes. In this case, police said, the bus was started in gear and moved before the motor had time to develop the necessary air pressure for adequate braking.

Driver Is Helpless.

Soppeland realized the danger but was helpless. With loaded buses on either side of him, he could not swerve. He was forced to continue forward, toward the sidewalk and trafic crowded Sheridan road. Suddenly he saw a woman and two boys in front of him. They were Mrs. Theresa Stapleton, 50 years old, and Lloyd, 4, and Charles Foreau, 2½, all of the Kenwood Garden apartments, 5519 Kenwood avenue.

The bus struck all three, then continued out upon the pavement. It crossed the northbound lanes of Sheridan road. The southbound lanes were blocked by triple rows of cars waiting for the trafic lights.

Strikes Two Autos.

The bus struck the car of Joseph Weitock, 40 years old, of 1006 North Ashland avenue, in the innermost south lane, and shunted his car sideways into the car of Walter S. Moore, standing parallel to the west. Moore

INQUIRY ON TVA POWER DELAYED FOR ELECTIONS

Committee Worried Over Politics.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—The Democratic majority of the congressional investigating committee today decided to postpone the inquiry into the TVA's power rate yardstick until after the November elections.

The TVA has called its power rates a yardstick because they purport to measure fair prices for power in private industry.

The yardstick has been under fire on the ground that the TVA has failed to account properly for its costs in producing power. Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, whom President Roosevelt ousted as chairman of the TVA, declared that the yardstick is false and misleading.

Delay Criticism of Rates.

The decision of the committee to delay the yardstick inquiry will hold off criticism of utilities executives who have been called to give their views on the TVA rate policy.

Today's action drew an immediate protect from Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.]. He said he would oppose any plan to delay the hearings until TVA Director David Lilienthal and other witnesses had given full information on the power program.

W. O. Heffernan, secretary of the committee, sent telegrams to Wendell Willkie and C. E. Groesbeck, utilities executives, informing them that the time for their appearance before the committee had been postponed. They were to have testified this week.

Hearing Date Indefinite.

Heffernan told Mr. Willkie, who is president of Commonwealth and Southern corporation, that the date and place for his hearing was indefinite. He informed Mr. Groesbeck, who is chairman of the board of Electric Bond and Share, that he will be notified between now and Sept. 1 when to appear. The latter instructions also were sent to Bernard F. Weadock, managing director of Edison Electric Institute, a trade association of the industry.

Commonwealth and Southern and Electric Bond and Share are the two chief holding companies owning operating companies affected by TVA competition in the seven southeastern states in which the TVA operates.

It is the belief here that members of the congressional committee realized that the three utilities experts would bring their heaviest guns to bear on the TVA yardstick and decided that it would be advantageous to keep the power question out of the fall congressional elections.

Wolverton Cites Delay.

"I expected that all information on the yardstick would be made available during the hearings in Knoxville," said Representative Wolverton when he learned of plans for the delay.

"I will be greatly disappointed if we have to leave before receiving the facts and figures on which the yardstick is based. The rate schedule was given publicity as early as September, 1933, but up to the present there has been no satisfactory explanation of the method adopted in fixing those rates.

"It seems to me that the time that has elapsed has been enough for Mr. Lilienthal, who is in charge of the power program, to make a complete statement of this important activity. There should be no further delay.

Yardstick Termed Vital.

"The information should be given to the committee now while it is in Knoxville, where all the books, papers, and officials having to do with the fixing of rates are located.

"The question of power rates and the correctness of the yardstick is one of the most important items given to the committee to investigate. We came to Knoxville to do so, and we should not leave Knoxville until the facts have been made available to us."

The plan of the committee is to continue the inquiry into Senator George L. Berry's 5 million dollar marble claim against the TVA, recess Sept. 2, and reconvene in Washington after the elections. There the committee would hear the testimony of power company executives and consider reports of engineers.

A staf of engineers and other investigators would remain on the ground to make a technical examination of TVA affairs, such as accounting, rate making, and allocation of the cost of TVA dams among hydro power, navigation, and flood control.

The investigation of Berry's marble claim will be resumed tomorrow, when J. Lawrence Fly, TVA general counsel, will return to the witness stand. Fly testified yesterday that the claims against the TVA were considered trivial until it became known that Berry was interested in them.

Senator Berry came to Knoxville today and said he would testify if the committee wished to hear him.

Others who will testify during the week will be W. H. Ford, who was a partner of C. A. Harris in taking mineral leases in the Norris dam area in 1932; Harris, who still is associated with Senator Berry in the claim, and George Collins of Frankfort, Ky., who is said to have purchased Ford's interest in the claim.

Report Loan Refused.

Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], chairman of the committee, is expected back from Washington tomorrow. He went to the capital to seek additional funds for the inquiry from President Roosevelt. Reports reaching here said that he did not obtain them.

It was understood he had intended to ask presidential help to get a loan of $25,000 or $50,000 from the RFC, the PWA, or the WPA to supplement the $50,000 congress appropriated for the investigation. The plan was to obtain a deficiency appropriation from the January session of congress to pay back the loan.

It was understood, however, that Mr. Roosevelt offered the loan of army engineers to assist in investigations into the power phase of the TVA.

GUARDIANS MEET TO DECIDE ON NEW HOME FOR QUINTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 14.—Final action on plans to provide the Dionne quintuplets with a new home is scheduled to be taken here tomorrow. Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, the girls' physician, will meet with Judge J. A. Valin, chairman of the board of guardians; Oliva Dionne, the father, and Attorney General Gordon Conant to perfect the arrangements.

The group will decide whether the quintuplets are to leave the Dafoe hospital in Callander, Ont., for a new home for themselves in an enlarged park area in Corbeil, five miles away, or for a home with their parents.

"We must have a new building," Dr. Dafoe said today. "Why, all five children are sleeping in one room. That can't go on forever."

Dionne announced he would be willing to forgo his souvenir business near the hospital if the whole family could be together under one roof.

Two Suspected Sluggers Held in Robbery Killing

Two young colored men were held by the Englewood police yesterday as suspects in the slaying Friday of Wesley Van Norman, 7172 Wabash avenue. U.S. AGENTS HUNT FOR 2 ABDUCTORS OF YOUNG COUPLE Seized in St. Louis, Freed in Minnesota, Unhurt.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Federal bureau of investigation agents today took over the search for the abductors of Daniel Cox Fahey Jr. and Peggy Gross, both of St. Louis, Mo., who were released near here early today.

Fahey, 31 years old, an architect for the National Park service, and Miss Gross, 23 years old, were found about 100 yards off a highway leading from Minneapolis to Champlin.

The couple said they were seized by two men as they were parked on Warson road, near St. Louis, threatened with guns, and forced into the back seat of Fahey's car as it started northward.

"They treated us decently and fed us well, except that they fired one shot to scare us," Fahey said. "When we got near Minneapolis, they agreed to let us off if we wouldn't make any rumpus."

The men told Fahey they were taking the couple with them because they knew if they released their captives they would report the car stolen.

Acquainted Only a Week.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Miss Peggy Gross and Daniel Cox Fahey Jr., abducted and released near Minneapolis, Minn., early today, were acquaintances of only a week.

The young woman's father, Robert H. Gross, a manufacturer's representative, tonight said his daughter met Fahey at a party a week ago. They had a dinner engagement and attended a symphony concert prior to their kidnaping, he added. They were seen in St. Louis about 9 o'clock Friday night.

Member of Social Set.

A member of the younger social set, Miss Gross has no particular hobbies, but plays tennis and swims. The family is prominent in St. Louis society.

Fahey, a landscape architect, came here about three years ago from Washington, D. C., where his mother lives. He has been drafting plans for the St. Louis Jefferson memorial river front improvement project here.

Miss Gross, in a telephone conversation, said that one of the abductors showed her a clipping about James Clyde Reed, now held on assault and robbery charges in Kennett, Mo. Police officers believe the abductors may be Reed's pals, John Couch and James Otis Meredith.

Strikers Lose Time

Comparison of the man days lost because of strikes in the first quarter of this year in Illinois and three other states.

Labor strikes in Illinois in the first quarter of this year brought a loss of 84,121 man days of work the Illinois Manufacturers' association reported yesterday. This was a drop of 57.2 per cent from the days lost in the first three months of 1937.

Illinois, the association found, was fourth among seven states studied in the number of idle days because of strikes. New York was first. Here is the record for the first quarter:

State	Man-days lost.
New York	366,223
Pennsylvania	161,476
California	127,196
Illinois	84,121
Massachusetts	48,601
Michigan	14,104
Ohio	9,549
Total	811,270

Lost wages from strikes amounted to $378,544 in Illinois in the first three months, the association estimated.

Four Badly Injured When Waukegan Porch Collapses

Four persons were seriously injured yesterday when they were thrown to the ground by the collapse of a second floor porch at 705 Helmholz avenue, Waukegan. The four, John Iskalis of Waukegan; Gus Lambert, 2209 Race avenue; Sophie Lambert of the same address, and Louis Melius of Waukegan were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Gardella at the time. They were taken to the St. Therese hospital, Waukegan. All suffered bone fractures.

HURRICANE HITS LOUISIANA, BUT LOSES ITS FORCE

New Orleans, La., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—A tropical storm from the Gulf of Mexico hit southwest Louisiana early tonight. Greatest damage was reported at Lake Charles, a city of 16,000 population, fifty miles inland. Before wires in the storm area were down it was learned that windows were shattered in store buildings and hotels, but the damage was not extensive.

Hurricane warnings had been posted along the Louisiana and Texas coasts early today. When the barometer fell and the wind started to blow shipping ran for shelter. Seas twelve feet high were running when last reports from the storm area were received.

The wind was 60 miles an hour, less than hurricane speed, when it struck Lake Charles. Full hurricane force is 75 miles an hour. At Jennings, forty miles east of Lake Charles, some trees were blown down. Twenty miles south of Jennings small boats on Lake Arthur were upset.

W. F. McDonald, chief of the New Orleans weather bureau, said the storm was about 75 miles wide when it crossed the coast. Most of the area where it struck is thinly populated and when wire services failed warnings were broadcast by radio.

Anxiety was felt for the 100 residents of the fishing village of Cameron. The village is at the foot of Lake Calcasieu and only a few miles from the gulf.

ONE PICNIC AFTER ANOTHER; THAT'S POLITICS FOR YOU

Both Republicans and Democrats are planning political picnics for Fox river valley voters at St. Charles. The Democrats will hold theirs Sept. 3. Next day the Republicans will try to outdo them.

The Democrats offer games, dancing, hoop-la concessions, and speeches by Gov. Horner, United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, State Public Works Director F. Lynden Smith, and Scott W. Lucas, candidate for United States senator.

The Republicans offer an arc light baseball game between the bearded House of David players from Benton Harbor, Mich., and the Kane county All-Stars; a beauty contest for the title of Miss St. Charles, and performances by radio and stage stars.

SWISS COMPLETE TANK TRAPS ON ROADS TO GENEVA

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 14.—A tank trap has been built within 500 yards of the league of nations palace. It is part of a system of traps the Swiss authorities have completed installing—one on every road leading into Geneva.

The one nearest the league is on the main Paris highway which passes before the palace. Each trap is a concrete strip 200 feet deep across asphalt pavement. There are emplacements for steel rails to be set vertically in wartime in thick files, seven in a row.

The building of traps on roads from France from where no invasion is expected was said to be the result of fears of a combined German-Italian drive through Switzerland against France. There is a suspicion the two armies might join east of Geneva.

Stove Overheats; Family of 4 Driven Out by Blaze

Charles Bruce, his wife, and their two children were driven from their home at Ozark and Montrose avenues yesterday by a fire which started when their kerosene stove became overheated. Mrs. Bruce was preparing dinner at the time. The flames spread rapidly, and damage was estimated at $4,000.

GERMANY HAILS RECORD ROUND TRIP SEA FLYERS

Berlin Honors 4 Airmen; Hitler Pays Respects.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Germany today hailed as a triumph the first aerial round trip between Germany and the United States in nonstop flights.

Four German flyers in the air liner Brandenburg came home from New York in the record time of 19 hours 55 minutes. This clipped 5 hours 50 minutes from the only previous nonstop west to east crossing to Berlin. The late Wiley Post made the previous record on the first leg of his 'round the world flight in 1933. The Brandenburg flew to New York in 24 hours 51 minutes on Aug. 11.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler telegraphed his "appreciation and recognition of your success" to Capt. Alfred Henke, commander of the Brandenburg, and his men.

Promised Even Better Plane.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister for air, telegraphed a promise that for their next venture he would give the flyers an even better plane to fly "wherever they wanted to go."

Thousands stood in the rain on Tempelhof field to see the flyers land the Brandenburg, a twenty-four passenger commercial plane. The 4,100 mile homeward journey was made at an average speed of 207 miles an hour. Capt. Henke had planned a 20 hour trip and reached his goal five minutes sooner.

Among the welcoming crowd were United States Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson and the United States military attaché, Maj. Truman Smith. Wolfgang von Gronau, a pioneer trans-Atlantic flyer and president of the German Aero club, presented each member of the crew with a silver plate. The flyers signed Berlin's "golden book" at the Aviators' club.

Outside the Aviators' club shouting crowds demanded to see the flyers and broke into lusty "heils," waving paper swastikas each time they appeared on the balcony.

"Will Impress Others."

German air experts said they were pleased particularly that the new record was achieved in a Folke-Wulf plane built for commercial purposes and not for special stunts. Some Nazis said they believe the flight would "impress England and France with the efficiency and power of German planes."

The flyers said the weather reports sent from Hamburg greatly simplified their navigation. They had no motor trouble. The trip was planned so confidently that the plane was not insured. Of 2,580 gallons of gasoline taken on in New York, only 92 gallons remained when the plane landed. The reserve oil supply was untouched.

The Brandenburg is similar to an American Douglas DC-3, except that it is powered by four motors instead of two. They are 850 horse power Pratt & Whitney Hornets, built by the Bavarian Motor works under license by the American company. Besides receiving apparatus, it is equipped with two short wave and two long wave radio transmitters.

NAZIS WIN RACE WITH STORK IN OCEAN FLIGHT

BERLIN, Aug. 14—(AP)—There was an absentee today at the reception at Templehof airdrome for four German flyers returning from a record-breaking round trip flight to the United States. She was Frau Alfred Henke, wife of the flight commander, and her reason was purely domestic: She expects the birth of a baby tomorrow. Cept. Henke confided to friends that if it is a girl her name will be "Condora"—for the Condor-type German passenger plane in which he made the nonstop trans-Atlantic flights.

Styled for Fall

A Daniel Boone touch lends charm to this fall hat fashioned by Marion Valle. Rust antelope is encircled with a broad band of silver fox. Matching gloves of antelope and silver fox are worn.

[Acme Photos.]

The "Yodel," a Danish blue felt hat on the fantastic side. Its peaked crown is banded in wide green velvet ribbon. The bird sprouts peacock colored feathers.

Reminders of the season are nowhere more apparent than in fall styles created for women's hats. Trimmings as well as color bespeak autumn in the new creations which have been placed on display by Chicago merchants. Fur trimmed hats will remind the observer that fall opens the hunting season, and the colors reflect nature's painting of the leaves.

Springfield Insurance Man Is Found Dead in His Auto

COUNCIL TO ACT SOON ON AIRPORT EXPANSION PLAN

Draft of Ordinance Will Be Ready Sept. 7.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman, who is studying proposals for the ordinance for the enlargement of Chicago airport, said yesterday the measure will be ready for the council's consideration Sept. 7.

The corporation counsel's office drafted a tentative ordinance several weeks ago and submitted it to the railroads affected. An alternate form was submitted to the city by the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, whose tracks must be moved for the expansion.

Grossman said he has altered the city's draft to correspond in most details with the one suggested by the railroad. Differences remaining are to be settled at a conference of attorneys for the city and the railroads late this week.

Special Powers Granted.

The ordinance is designed to take advantage of the special powers recently granted the city by the state legislature for enlarging and improving the airport. Tracks of the Chicago and Western Indiana, which now separate the present airport from the proposed enlargement to the north, are to be moved north of 54th street. Then the entire tract, a mile square, may be utilized.

In effect, Grossman explained, Chicago will enter into a contract with the railroad to pay the entire cost of the track removal, estimated at $800,000.

Once the ordinance is adopted the city will begin acquiring the property for the new right of way.

City to Buy Land.

If possible the city will buy the land through individual transactions with the owners. If the city and the owners cannot agree on terms the city will begin condemnation proceedings in court.

Mayor Kelly has ordered the utmost speed in clearing away the legal obstacles to utilizing the entire tract, which is bounded by 55th and 63d streets and Central and Cicero avenues. It is expected that the tracks can be moved by next July.

More than 4,000 WPA workers are busy on the north half of the property building runways, landscaping the tract, installing sewers, and completing a taxi strip around it. Approval of a $1,883,994 grant to finish the work was announced Friday by H. K. Seltzer, Chicago PWA director. The city has provided $48,657 for skilled labor.

WHITNEY IN PRISON 4 MONTHS.

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Richard Whitney today completed four months of his prison term in Sing Sing. The former head of the New York stock exchange must serve forty months of his five to ten year sentence before he will be eligible for parole.

Angers Artists

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The St. Louis museum's $14,400 bronze cat whose purchase angered artists, labor unions, and women's clubs.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—(AP)—It took a black tom cat to get the St. Louis art public all riled up.

It wasn't the cat's whiskers that caused the controversy—for it didn't have any. Neither was it the cat's meow. It was the $14,400 price tag on the homely bronze Egyptian statuette of a tom cat recently purchased by the city art museum.

Since acquisition of the fifth century B. C. figure, allegedly 2,400 years old, many persons have attacked the judgment of the museum in spending that much money for a cat "when relief needs are desperate."

Union laborers joined in the fracas. A group of striking building workers picketed the city hall, toting signs which read: "$14,000 for a useless bronze cat—nothing for labor."

FAMOUS GERMAN WAR PILOT NOW IN WPA 'ARMY'

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Twenty years ago Capt. Jacob von Wiegand, German world war ace, was mustered out of the German air forces with a citation for having brought down twenty-two allied planes in combat.

Today "The Flying Dutchman," as he was known to allied war pilots, is enrolled in Uncle Sam's army of WPA workers at $57 a month. He is digging trenches on a highway improvement project in Matawan, near here. Now 50 years old, Von Weigand came to the United States in 1919 and became an American citizen ten years ago. He has been on the WPA rolls three months. He and his wife, an American, are living in an automobile trailer.

Number Receiving State and U. S. Aid Drops 1 Pct.

WILD BUS KILLS BOY, INJURES 9 IN SHERIDAN RD.

Brakes Fail as It Plunges Out of Terminal Lot.

is 38 years old, an official of the Greyhound Bus company, and lives at 3028 Grant street, Evanston.

Here occurred perhaps the most ironic phase of the accident. Mrs. Stapleton was dragged across the sidewalk and into the street by the bus. The Foreau boys were knocked into the street, but between the wheels. On striking the automobile the bus stopped. Then it backed up due to the downward slope of the pavement. As it backed toward the curb, one of its wheels crushed Lloyd Foreau, killing him.

Both Receive Skull Fractures.

Both Mrs. Stapleton and Charles Foreau received skull fractures and other injuries. She was taken to the Edgewater hospital, and Charles Foreau to the Physicians' Memorial hospital.

Weitock also is believed to have received a skull fracture. Moore was slightly hurt. Five other persons, all in Weitock's car, were also injured. They were his wife Anna, his daughter Helen, Mrs. Julia Reece, 4040 Hirsch street; Mrs. Barbara Bogdajska, 1022 North Ashland avenue, and Lillian Kindzein, 1006 North Ashland avenue. Mrs. Reece's skull may have been fractured, and Miss Bogdajska suffered back injuries. The others required only first aid.

Her Charity Revealed.

The accident revealed Mrs. Stapleton as a charitable neighbor. In her purse was found a church statement explaining that since she was childless she would pay the school tuition of a poor child from time to time. It was in her rôle of befriending her neighbors that she took the Foreau brothers on an outing yesterday. The parents of the children are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Foreau. He is a hotel employé. They have two other children.

Rogers Park police held Driver Soppeland for the inquest which is to be held at 1 p. m. today.

Woman, Girl, 5, Suffocated When Fire Damages Home

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Katheryn A. Schaefer, 50 years old, Columbus, Ind., Bartholomew County Recorder, and her granddaughter, Mary Ann McAllister, 5, daughter of an Indianapolis policeman, suffocated in smoke of a fire of undetermined origin which swept through a south side home here today. Mrs. George McAllister, mother of the dead child, suffered slight burns, and another daughter, Kathleen, 2½ years old, was carried from the house.

How Wild Bus Killed 1, Injured 9

A bus of the Chicago Motor Coach company which had been left standing in the terminal at Sheridan road and Devon avenue ran wild last night, killing a boy and injuring nine other persons. When the driver pressed on the starter the bus, which had been left in gear, started up. The air brakes were useless because the motor had not been running long enough to build up sufficient compression. The bus ran wild and struck a woman and two boys walking north (1), then plunged into Sheridan road and struck two automobiles (2).

FIVE IN DIXMOOR SPEED TRAP CASE WILL FACE COURT

Mayor Charles Special of Dixmoor, his three man police force, and Police Magistrate Charles A. Braun will face court today in connection with an alleged speed trap. All five have been indicted for conspiring to extort money from the public. They will be arraigned before Acting Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne of the Criminal court.

For 23 years motorists have complained to the Chicago Motor club of speed traps at Dixmoor, a village of 400 south of Chicago. Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin investigated recently and brought ten motorists before the grand jury. They told of alleged irregularities by Special, Braun and the three policemen, Robert Greco, Charles Paduano, and Tony Bader.

MUSIC FESTIVAL CROWDS TO HEAR ALEC TEMPLETON

Famed Blind Pianist to Lend His Genius.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Within a few days an amazing young man will be winging his way eastward from the Pacific coast to appear as the great star of the Chicagoland Music Festival next Saturday night in Soldiers' field.

He is Alec Templeton, Great Britain's famous blind pianist. His startling genius broke upon America less than three years ago when he came to Chicago with Jack Hylton's London orchestra.

Hylton long since has gone back to Europe and the American public has all but forgotten him. Templeton has stayed to win the hearts of all Americans who have heard him play. And what is probably more important to his future as a great artist, he has won the admiration and applause of the music critics.

Barry Praises Him.

Here is what is said of him by Edward Barry, THE TRIBUNE'S music critic, who is a fine pianist in his own right:

"Templeton's natural gift for music is the most astounding of any with which I have ever had personal contact. He has an active and aggressive mind that made it possible for him to obtain an excellent musical education before reaching manhood.

"And he has a first rate musical imagination. The marriage of his mind and fingers breeds offspring of rare, fragile beauty. Even his improvisations have loveliness and truth. He bends an undistinguishable theme to his own uses and glorifies it somehow in the process."

It should be borne in mind that these words—by a critic who has a following of thousands—are spoken of a young man who was born blind in a remote section of Wales twenty-five years ago. But what a rise! His musical genius, which manifested itself when he was 4 years old, had made him soloist with many famous European symphony orchestras even before his conquest of America.

Plays Swing and Likes It.

But there is nothing highbrow about Alec; he insists on being called Alec very soon after you meet him. As American radio listeners know, he plays swing and likes it. And it is his astounding gift of theme blending—song blending—which so impressed Edward Barry that will climax his performance in Soldiers' field Saturday night.

Let's let Barry tell about it:

"Four people were asked to suggest four tunes for the pianist to weld into a single fantasy. The most grotesquely assorted quartet in the history of music was the result. The four things chosen were 'Ol' Man River,' 'the Military Polonaise,' 'The Music Goes Round and Around,' and Ravel's 'Bolero.'

"Templeton took them without a protest and set his faculties to work. They were not only welded together successfully, but handled in such a way that one seemed to germinate the others."

Audience to Choose Tunes.

At the music festival Saturday night the audience will choose the tunes Alec will weld together and play as one at a moment's notice. Ushers will circulate among the throng and pick up suggestions at random. You can suggest anything. Try to stump him. Let him try his hand at blending "The Flat Foot Floogie," "The Pilgrims' Chorus," and "Hell's Bells."

The ushers will hand the suggestion slips to the announcer, who will read them. And immediately Alec will start playing. It will be something such as you have never before seen or heard. Templeton is the first pianist ever chosen as the great star of the festival and it may be that he will prove to be the most spectacular of the many artists who have appeared there.

8,000 Other Stars.

And Templeton will not be the only star of this, the ninth Chicagoland Music Festival. There will be a mammoth show of massed choruses and instrumentalists, 8,000 strong. There will be two hours and a half of drama and music under the stars, starting at 7:30 p.m.

This great evening of entertainment is made possible by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which, with associated newspapers and musical organizations, has built the festival into the world's greatest annual mass music event.

Sixteen women's and mixed choruses in Cook county will compete tonight in the preliminary contest of the ninth Chicagoland Music Festival. The competition will open at 7 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel, with 684 singers participating. The public is invited. Admission of 25 cents is payable at the door.

Sylvia Brydine.

Frank Bennett.

The festival's Hallelujah chorus rehersal will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Auditorium hotel. After the practice, conducted by Noble Cain, general choral director of the festival, members will go to Soldiers' field for the formal rehersal for the festival, which will be held Saturday night in the field.

The judges tonight are George A. Carlson, choir leader of the Ebenezer Lutheran church, and president of the Chicago Choral Directors' Guild; George Calder, supervisor of music at Whiting, Ind., who one year entered five choruses in the festival contest, winning several places, and Haydn Owens, dean of music at Ohio Northern university, at Ada. Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of vocal and choral contests of the festival, will be in charge of the competition.

Choruses Are Listed.

The choruses, by divisions, with directors and sponsors, if any, follow:

Lake View High School a Cappella choir, Naomi Sweet, and South Park Young People's chorus, James T. Campbell, South Park Methodist Episcopal church.

Only one male chorus is competing in Cook county. It is the West Suburban Glee club, directed by Carl O. Behnke. It will compete Saturday noon with the out-of-Cook county groups in the grand ballroom of the Drake.

Two festival events will take place tomorrow. At noon several of the Cook county preliminary vocal winners will sing at the Chicago Rotary club luncheon meeting in the Hotel Sherman. Tomorrow night, beginning at 7 o'clock, the 18 sectional voice victors will compete for the honor of representing Cook county at the Drake. At 8 o'clock the Cook county contest for the violinists and cornetists will be conducted.

Philip Maxwell, director of the festival, will speak at 12:35 p. m. Wednesday on the Mid-day Service program over W-G-N. He will review some of the highlights of previous festivals and discuss the program which will be heard Saturday night.

1ST GREATER WEST SIDE MUSIC FESTIVAL PLAYS TO A CROWD OF 6,000

The first Greater West Side Music festival was presented before 6,000 persons in Garfield park last night. It was the forerunner of the Chicagoland Music Festival to be held next Saturday night, and will be repeated next year in coöperation with the Chicagoland festival.

More than 500 music makers participated in the show. Every kind of music, from vocal to instrumental, was expertly presented. There were choral groups and bands, the baton twirling exhibitions, and dance numbers. All ages participated, from Sheila Ann Sullivan, only 4 years old, to James Collins, 68. Prominent west siders attended the festival. Ald. George Kells [28th] represented Mayor Kelly.

The festival was sponsored by the Greater West Side Fine Arts association and Mayor Kelly's New Century committee. Mrs. John Van Wakeman is president of the arts association and Miss Bessie Ryan founder chairman.

TWO WILL MEET TODAY ON SITE OF ANCESTORS' FIGHT

A great-grandson of the captain of the ill fated Fort Dearborn and a granddaughter of the Potawatomi chief who led the attack against the tiny fort will meet at noon today on the 126th anniversary of the battle.

Their meeting will be the site of the Fort Dearborn massacre, just south of the Michigan avenue bridge. L. Heald Ottofy, 4447 Irving Park road, is the grandson, and Mrs. Frances Winters of Norwood Park the granddaughter. Their meeting is sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce as part of its annual commemoration of the massacre.

Both yesterday and today were set aside by Mayor Kelly for observance of the anniversary. Ceremonies, including addresses and military drills, were held in Jackson and Lincoln parks last night in connection with band concerts.

ARRAIGN MACHINIST TODAY.

Harry Matthews, 2826 Fletcher street, a machinist, will be arraigned in the Court of Domestic Relations today on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a neighbor girl 7 years old.

TAMMANY BOSS ON TRIAL TODAY IN RACKET CASE

Dewey Wary of Politics in Jury Selection.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey worked over the week-end to put the finishing touches on the case against James J. Hines, Tammany district leader who will go to trial tomorrow on charges arising from New York City's 100 million dollar a year policy racket.

Justice Pecora.

Selection of the jury will require at least two days, and perhaps the better part of the week. Three hundred names have been drawn from a special panel from which the jury will be chosen. The care with which the jury will be picked has been approached in few trials.

Wary of Tammany Hall.

Dewey will use unusual care in selecting the twelve jurors and two alternates because Tammany Hall, the dominant political machine in New York since the early days of the city, has passed out favors to a large part of the population. Moreover, Hines was an early lieutenant for the Roosevelt forces here and has been the administration's chief patronage dispenser in Manhattan.

The trial, which will be before Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, will last at least a month.

There is speculation whether Hines' fate will be determined by Sept. 28, when the state Republican convention is held. It is said that the convention will nominate Dewey for governor, although the prosecutor, who is 36 years old, has said he is not a candidate for any office.

150 State Witnesses.

It has been estimated that the prosecution will have 150 witnesses from which to draw. Among them are three co-defendants who have pleaded guilty. They are J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, mouthpiece [attorney] for Arthur [Dutch] Schultz Flegenheimer, slain gang chief; Harry Schoenhaus, financial secretary for Schultz, and George Weinberg, another Schultz lieutenant in the policy racket.

Hope Dare, Davis' showgirl sweetheart, was given credit for inducing Davis to plead guilty and turn state's evidence against Hines. Miss Dare was arrested with Davis when the gang lawyer was seized several months ago in Philadelphia. Davis was permitted to leave jail here to make visits to Miss Dare's New York apartment.

The three men probably will be called to support Dewey's charge that Hines influenced, intimidated, or bribed judges and other officials to permit the underworld to run the policy racket, a numbers lottery scheme, unmolested.

Defense Plan Secret.

The defense plans, mapped by Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of the Hines counsel, have been secret. It is expected Stryker will call many public figures, including judges, to the witness stand. This parade will consist mainly of persons who will vouch for the Tammany leader's character.

Jurors will be locked up throughout the trial and will be under guard at all times. They will be questered in a hotel, perhaps taking up a complete floor, with living rooms, reception rooms, and a special dining room. The alternates will have no part in the verdict unless one or two of the original twelve become ill or are forced to discontinue for some other reason.

Justice Pecora plans to convene court each day at 10 a. m. Whether sessions will be held evenings and Saturdays remains to be decided.

Watchman's Family Flee in Blaze at Lumber Yard

A $3,700 fire in a lumber yard at 9457 Ewin gavenue was extinguished yesterday in fifteen minutes after a 2-11 alarm. The blaze started in a storage shed and spread to the offices, above which lived the watchman, Mike Borozen. He turned in the alarm and brought out his wife and child unharmed. Fire Chief Daniel Gullinan estimated the damage.

Criminals Hunted

Officers from three states yesterday were searching the wooded mountains along the Arkansas-Oklahoma border and the Cossatot river bottoms for Floyd Hamilton and his desperado companion.

Dequeen, Ark., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Peace officers from three states today hunted through a 10 square mile area in the wilderness of southwestern Arkansas for Floyd Hamilton and a desperado companion believed to be Huron Walters. The two fled there after a gun battle yesterday with state police.

Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas officers searched the area on foot and circled it in radio-equipped cars.

The area embraced the densely wooded moutains along the Arkansas-Oklahoma border and the jungles of the Cossatot river. The underbrush is so dense that visibility is limited to a few feet. Aiding the officers was a pack of bloodhounds.

Members of the old Clyde Barrow-Raymond Hamilton gang, the desperados are wanted for several robberies. They also are suspected of a recent pay roll robbery in Woodriver, [illegible] of the kidnap-robbery of a Chicago man.

PHONES TO TELL WIFE HE IS ALL RIGHT; DIES IN CAR

Gordon Swardstead, 42 years old, left his home at 1824 North Mayfield avenue last Wednesday. His wife heard nothing from him until Saturday night, when he telephoned to say that he was all right and would call her later to explain his absence.

Yesterday a body of a man was found in an automobile in an alley near Bloomingdale avenue between Central and Parkside avenues. A rubber tube extended from the exhaust pipe through a small opening in the floor near the driver's seat. A doctor said the man had died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

From cards the body was identified. Mrs. Swardstead was called by the police. They told her that her husband was dead.

CITY FOLK TO SEE REAL COUNTY FAIR AT CROWN POINT

City folk who have never seen a county fair and the prime bit of Americana it displays have been invited to attend the seventy-seventh Lake county fair in Indiana. It opens tomorrow at Crown Point.

Sixty horses are stabled at the fair grounds for the week's race program. Purses total $3,500. Saturday, with seven races, will be Derby day.

More than seventy-five of the best gaiters in the Chicago and Calumet districts have been entered in the society horse show, an attraction each evening of the fair. Prizes of $1,500 await the winners.

Judging of live stock will start as soon as the fair opens. Final results may not be determined until Wednesday, because of the large number of cattle and horses.

Boys and girls in 4-H clubs of Lake, Porter, Jasper, and Newton counties have entered twenty-two full pens of pure bred swine and 150 sheep.

GERMANY DRAWS UP HUGE ARMY IN WARLIKE ARRAY

Border Incidents Feared in Nazi Maneuvers.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Germany's powerful army of 1,000,000 men was drawn up in warlike array tonight in preparation for next month's maneuvers. An additional 500,000 reservists will join the colors tomorrow for intensive training. Other European nations watched with apprehension lest some Czechoslovak frontier incident produce a lightning conflict.

Britain and France, disturbed by the Nazis' heavy realism, remained in close contact. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain stayed close to the foreign office.

Czechoslovakia, always in a state of preparedness ever since her army was partly mobilized May 21, trusted in the guiding wisdom of her leaders.

Germany's maneuvers along the Czechoslovak and French borders were expected to last about six weeks and Europe was not expected to breathe easier until they end.

Strengthen Border Patrols.

French and German frontier patrols were strengthened as Nazi workers by the thousands labored at the task of erecting huge secret fortifications to protect Germany's western border. Czechoslovak authorities cautioned restraint in the face of the jittery situation.

The Nazis' unusual ostentation in calling out reservists, mobilizing automobiles, motorcycles, horses, and requisitioning other civilian property for the widespread war games puzzled other powers despite German deprecation of their alarm.

The most obvious conclusion was that the tremendous military display was designed for the benefit of Czechoslovakia in her negotiations with the Sudeten German minority.

Czech Officers to Be Tried.

A Reuters, British news agency, dispatch from Prague said the Czechoslovak government, counseling restraint, ordered the trial of army officers responsible for last week's bristling declaration: "There can be no retreat. For this principle [the state's authority] we can die, but we can never withdraw—not one step—not one inch."

The declaration was immediately taken up by the Nazi press and used for an onslaught upon alleged Czech hard-headedness.

Many observers believed the officers' statement was an indication of the restraint which the presence of Viscount Runciman of Great Britain as an unofficial mediator had heretofore engendered, was beginning to crumble and that Czechoslovak nationalism was beginning to reassert itself.

Britain Awaits Developments.

Britain's attention centered anxiously on the efforts of Runciman to settle the issue between the Czechoslovak government and the Sudeten Germans.

The growing conviction in London was that, beyond trying to solve the minority quarrel, the Runciman mission was to point the way for future British policy.

If the mission fails to find a compromise, it may determine largely how far Britain would go in supporting France if the final issue of the Nazi supported Sudeten German struggle comes to war.

Most competent observers feel that if a crisis can be averted until October, the prospect of force would lessen until spring, at least, giving valuable time during the winter for efforts to find the key to Czechoslovakia's security and internal peace.

Drive Nears Mines

(Story in adjoining column.)

The Spanish rebel drive in southwestern Spain threatens another completely loyalist province. One rebel column (1) has reached the Guadiana river and another (2) the border of Ciudad Real province. The world's richest mercury mines are located at Almaden.

REBELS ADVANCE IN SPAIN'S RICH MINING DISTRICT

Two Columns Push Near Mercury Source.

HENDAYE, France, [At the Spanish frontier], Aug. 14.—(AP)—Spanish rebel southern armies today reached the border of Ciudad Real province, a government stronghold since the start of the civil war. The rebels pushed their campaign of conquest through Spain's richest mining region.

Two columns bore down on the Almaden mercury mines, their immediate objective, which are just east of the provincial border.

Forces under Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano struck out east of Cabeza del Buey, captured by the rebels yesterday. They pushed through Badajoz province to the limits of Ciudad Real about fifteen miles from Almaden.

Citizens Flee from City.

Another force, closing in from the northwest, drove through Valdecaballeros to the Guadiana river.

Roads followed by the two columns join at a point above Puebla de Alcocer which is threatened with encirclement.

Rebel dispatches reported the city of Ciudad Real, capital of the province, was being emptied rapidly of civilian population and fortified hurriedly by the government.

The government acknowledged a retreat on the southern front, but reported Gen. Jose Miaja's troops still held strong hill positions defending the road from Castuera to Almaden and Ciudad Real.

18 Rebel Planes Shot Down.

BARCELONA, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Rebel and government planes battled for two hours over Gandesa today in one of the sharpest air engagements of the Spanish civil war.

Government leaders said their fighters brought down eighteen rebel craft without the loss of a single plane. Listed as shot down were fifteen pursuit planes and three twin-motored bombers. Gandesa is ninety miles southwest of Barcelona and is the center of the fighting on the Ebro front.

Accounts of the air fight were received while rebel planes conducted the fourth raid on Barcelona within twenty-four hours. The attacks were directed chiefly at the waterfront where little damage was done.

Willed a Wedding

MRS. J. M. GOLDING.

New York, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—The will of James M. Golding, late Kings county commander of the American Legion, filed yesterday, contained this reference to his Brooklyn widow: "It is my earnest hope and prayer that she should remarry, for I feel that since she has made such an ideal mate for me she should continue in that capacity to another man who may be more worthy of her."

Slovak Autonomy Leader Stricken in Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Father Andreas Hlinka, leader of the Slovak autonomist party, was reported seriously ill today at his home in Rozmberk. He is 73 years old. Reports from Rozmberk said thousands of adherents, on whose behalf Father Hlinka presented autonomy demands to the government, gathered there today to pray for his recovery.

JAPAN PROTESTS MAJOR'S ARREST IN SHANGHAI ROW

Foreign Area Police Seize Him as Troublemaker.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A Japanese army major was detained today within the international settlement. He was seized as a suspected troublemaker in disorders that have marked the first anniversary of the outbreak of Chinese-Japanese hostilities in the Shanghai area.

Japanese military authorities protested to the administration of the international settlement. They contended that detention of a Japanese officer was illegal.

Police and defense troops maintained their strict precautions after widespread violence yesterday which resulted in one death.

Many Killed Year Ago.

Today was another reminder to Chinese of the anniversary of the war when thousands of Chinese were killed or wounded on Aug. 14, 1937. On that date Chinese warplanes bombed foreign areas of Shanghai in an air battle with Japanese planes.

Japanese war dispatches reported new progress in the Yangtze river campaign against Hankow, China's provisional capital.

Avert New Changkufeng Clash.

MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A soviet Russian communique said today a new armed clash at Changkufeng was narrowly averted when Japanese troops moved forward after the armistice of Aug. 11 went into effect.

The soviet announcement asserted Japanese troops occupied the northern slope of Changkufeng hill and got within a few yards of soviet troops along the Siberian-Manchukuan-Corean border.

Tass, official soviet news agency, said the soviet commissar of foreign affairs, Maxim Litvinov, pointed out to the Japanese ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu, this violation of the armistice terms and demanded the withdrawal of Japanese troops for at least 100 yards.

Tass added that "at the present moment" Japanese have withdrawn from the point in question.

New at the Zoo

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A Babirusa, a species of wild swine, which was placed on exhibit at Brookfield zoo yesterday.

Two strange hogs cavorted merrily in the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield yesterday. In their cavorting lay a partial explanation of their presence, for most hogs simply waddle.

These, however, are rare wild swine known as babirusa [literally: Pig deer] from Celebes, a Dutch island midway between Australia and the Philippine Islands. Their snouts are definitly swinish, but their hairless, brown bodies are slim and graceful and their legs are long and delicate, as those of an antelope.

The two, the only pair in this country, have been caged since April 15. Yesterday, upon arrival at Brookfield, they were freed in their play yard.

The lion house at the Brookfield zoo was thronged yesterday as visitors sought a glimpse of the four new cubs of Jewel, a 400 pound western tiger. Occasionally one of the kittens, born three weeks ago, poked a round, golden face outside the retiring den door, but Jewel quickly retrieved it by the scuff of the neck.

FIREMEN SOUND ALARM; POLICE PUT BLONDE OUT

It seems that Myrtle Anderson thought her bright blonde tresses would look well with a fire truck as a background. Especially in yesterday's early dawn, when she wanted to go for a ride on it. The firemen wern't impressed by the prospect, and called police.

Myrtle Anderson.

The police thought she would look much better against the blue of a paddy wagon, but they wouldn't let her drive, either.

Myrtle already had given the street car motormen some trouble. She stood in front of their cars and dared them to run over her. They didn't, but they weren't fluttering about it.

Myrtle said she is in her thirties, that she lives at 1532 East 63d street, and that she had been on a party. The police invited her to another, today in Women's court.

THROWS HIS PET DOG THROUGH A WINDOW; JAILED

Walter Peterson, a WPA worker, was arrested by the east side police yesterday after he threw his small poodle dog through the plate glass window of a tavern at 10063 Avenue N. The dog was dead when picked up by patrons in the place.

Peterson, who lives at 10015 Avenue N, had been drinking. Later he told police he did not remember the incident. Witnesses said he hurled his dog through the window after it had been beaten in a fight with the tavern owner's dog, a shepherd. The tavern owner is Louis Starc.

The police said Peterson would be charged with cruelty to animals and malicious mischief.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS

By CALEB

TWO WOMEN walked through a sixth floor corridor in our store, chatting interestedly, when one of them paused suddenly to stoop and pick a piece of thread off the floor.

"Gracious," she said as she straightened up with the raveling between thumb and finger, "I've been coming to this store so long that I feel as responsible for it as the folks who work here," and she tossed the bit of thread into a waste basket. Her companion laughed and nodded understandingly as together they walked to a waiting elevator.

The same sort of regard for the store prompts a steady flow of letters of appreciation and—we are happy to say—not infrequently letters and comments taking us to task for some shortcoming in service or attitude.

We think it should be made clear that we expect our friends to point out shortcomings as well as the phases of our work that progress smoothly. We quickly admit that ours—like many another human institution—falls short of perfection. When it does, we like to know—and take steps to remedy matters.

Not long ago one customer closed a letter to us with the sentence, "I know that I am only one customer, and that my annual expenditures are not great. Perhaps my voice will be lost in the shuffle."

That particular customer was pleased to learn later that far from being lost in the shuffle, her suggestion was the subject of prolonged discussion in no less than three meetings. As a consequence, some changes were made in store procedure, and the occurrence she complained of is today almost unheard of.

Naturally our friends are particular and demand performance and service here: we would not have it otherwise. While we cannot, in the nature of things, promise perfection, we can agree that every criticism will be thoroughly studied—no matter from whence it comes—and that whatever remedies are indicated, will be undertaken. Some important advances in our service technique have grown out of customer suggestions and we hope that more will follow as friends and neighbors make suggestions.

ROOSEVELT AND HOPKINS CONFER ON PURGE PLANS

Discuss Strategy During Cruise on Bay.

third ranking leader of the house of representatives.

Whether the attempted purge will be extended to Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.], it is understood, depends upon the action of Governor Richard Kirman, who must file his papers tomorrow if he enters the senatorial race. The President failed to crack down on Senator McCarran when he went through Nevada last month, just as he failed to take a slap at Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.], and the left wingers were sorely grieved.

Now it is reported that the administration will do everything it can for Governor Kirman if he enters the race as a 100 per center. The silver-haired McCarran incurred the wrath of the White House when he fought the court packing bill and, later, the "dictator" reorganization bill.

Maryland Plans in Doubt.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt will go into Maryland and denounce Senator Tydings by name is not yet known, but White House attachés have made it plain that the full power of the administration will be thrown behind the candidacy of Rep. David J. Lewis, the 100 per center, who was selected by the President to unseat Tydings.

Mr. Roosevelt will have an opportunity to voice his approval of the Lewis candidacy in a radio address tomorrow evening on the occasion of the third anniversary of the social security act. Although this talk has been heralded as "non political," the President undoubtedly will mention the names of those who sponsored the bill—Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.] in the senate and Rep. Lewis in the house. Senator Tydings voted "present" on the social security act.

Expect Slap at O'Connor.

The President is expected to use his press conference on Tuesday afternoon as the occasion for a slap at Representative O'Connor. The President will be asked by a friendly newspaper reporter, it is understood, how he regards the O'Connor candidacy. And he is expected to reply that if he could vote in the 16th New York district he would vote for James H. Fay. Mr. Fay, a deputy collector of internal revenue, was put in the race by the administration.

Mr. Roosevelt will be at Hyde Park, N. Y., on Sept. 17, when he is scheduled to make a Constitutional day address, and he is expected to make this an occasion for an attack on O'Connor. The veteran rules committee chairman committed such unpardonable offenses as leading the fight on the reorganization bill and bottling up the Walsh-Healy "black list" bill, aimed at government contractors proscribed by the labor relations board, a measure demanded by C. I. O. Dictator John L. Lewis.

SEN. SHEPPARD ONLY LAWMAKER DENIED A LAYOFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Senator Morris Sheppard is about the only member of congress who has not had a vacation this summer. The Texas Democrat is dean of congress by reason of thirty-six years' service—eleven in the house and twenty-five in the senate.

Senator Sheppard.

Senator Sheppard is chairman of the campaign expenditures committee and has been kept busy since congress adjourned investigating complaints about primary election expenses. He said today he would get no rest until after the general election in November. His only recreation this summer has been an overnight trip to a resort in Virginia and two rounds of golf on a public course.

HITS MELTING POT THEORY AS PATH TO DICTATORSHIP

Says Americans Want to Be Themselves.

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Dr. James M. Yard, executive secretary of the Chicago round table of the National Conference of Jews and Christians said today the melting pot theory of American democracy was opening the way for dictatorship. He spoke for the Protestant faith at an inter-faith religious service conducted by the round table at the midwest conference on adult education.

"Modern Americans," Dr. Yard said, "do not accept the theory of the melting pot. We want to be ourselves. We do not want any system that will boil us down until we have lost all color, all originality, all power to go on creating.

"American civilization has been produced by the inter-mingling of different cultures. Democracy always requires an opposing minority for it is in the free clash of opinions that we make progress."

Paul O'Donnell, a Chicago attorney and a Catholic spokesman, told the group that: "The forces of excessive nationalism, of Naziism, of Fascism, of communism, and of atheism are welded together more and more into a fighting unit by the hatred of God. Against this, let all men find in the common principle of love and fear of God that welding force which will bind them into a united, crusading army."

The principles of "sanity, courage, and justice" were needed, Rabbi David Wice of Omaha, Neb., said, for a "world gone mad."

Don't let your marriage be ruined by a venereal disease, but see your physician or this clinic!

Many a promising marriage has ended miserably because of an unsuspected venereal infection. For untreated gonorrhea is the principal cause of sterility—the reason for childless homes, while untreated syphilis is responsible for most stillborn, deformed and feeble-minded babies!

In addition to making it difficult if not impossible to have healthy children, venereal diseases are the cause of many other tragedies. Neglected gonorrhea, for example, can cripple you with arthritis, lead to a sight-destroying eye infection, or result in serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles. And neglected syphilis can deprive you of sight or hearing, disable you with heart disease, lay you low with paralysis, or bring on a nervous breakdown that may end in insanity!

Because a venereal infection can be contracted innocently, it would be a wise thing for every married couple to be examined for gonorrhea and syphilis, either by a private physician or the Public Health Institute. Each patient of the Institute is promptly and individually attended in a private room, and to avoid embarrassment is identified by number instead of by name. To date, the Institute's skilled men and women physicians have given more than 5,000,000 examinations and treatments for venereal diseases!

PRE-MARRIAGE EXAMINATIONS

With separate departments for men and women, and with both men and women physicians in attendance, the Public Health Institute is especially well fitted to make the medical tests which the law requires every couple to have before a marriage license can be obtained. A thorough physical examination, including all necessary laboratory tests, costs $3.00 per person. Those examined before 2 P.M. (at 159 or 169 N. Dearborn St.) can have certificates same day.

Organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, the Public Health Institute puts specialized venereal disease treatment within the reach of those with small incomes. A thorough examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood tests, urinalysis and smears, costs only $3.00, while some treatments for syphilis cost as little as $1.00 and some of those for gonorrhea still less. Even those temporarily pressed for funds can make arrangements to be treated!

LAWYER DROWNS AS WIFE LOOKS ON FROM SHORE

Two Others Lost in Lake County Mishaps.

Otto G. Ryden, a Chicago lawyer, drowned yesterday while swimming off a beach near Sister Bay, Wis. Coroner Elmer Christenson at Bailey's Harbor, Wis., said Ryden apparently was seized with a heart attack. His wife and a daughter were watching him and saw him go down.

Otto G. Ryden.

The coroner said there would be no inquest. Cries of Mrs. Ryden and the daughter, Isabelle, attracted other swimmers and the body was recovered about 100 yards off shore.

Native of Sweden.

Ryden was born in Sweden in 1874. He graduated from Evanston Township High school in 1899 and Northwestern university in 1903. Mrs. Ryden was his second wife. He was a member of the law firms of Hoyne, O'Connor & Hoyne, and Hoyne, O'Connor & Irwin for many years. His home was at 1604 Lunt avenue. He had offices at 111 West Washington street.

Two Chicagoans drowned yesterday in Lake county. John Kieta, 23 years old, of 2421 Carmen avenue, was rowing on Wauconda lake with Lloyd Schaffhausen, 23, of 4721 North Washtenaw avenue. Kieta dove from the boat. When he did not come up, Schaffhausen dove after him.

Seized in Death Grip.

Schaffhausen was seized in a death grip by Kieta. When he finally shook himself free he was so spent that life guards worked for an hour before they were able to revive him. Kieta was lost.

Mary Ann McDarby, 10 years old, an inmate of the Mount St. Joseph School for Handicapped Children, situated between Wauconda and Lake Zurich, wandered into an ornamental pool on the grounds. She was not found until an hour later. It was believed she fell into it and drowned.

4 RESCUED WHEN SLOOP CAPSIZES OFF WAUKEGAN

Four men, three of them chauffeurs for Lake Forest families, were rescued a mile and a half southeast of Waukegan yesterday when their sloop capsized. The four are F. J. Barreleman, chauffeur for Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson; F. H. Davis, employed by Charles Dempster; Fred Sailor, who works for E. P. Donnelley, and Chester Adams, a friend. Harbor Master Milton Larson of Waukegan picked them up in a tug.

Five men and a boy were rescued from the lake last night a short time after their 18 foot outboard motorboat had been swamped by a huge wave about a mile northeast of the Old Chicago coast guard station. They were Hilmar Greiner, Fred Mizerry, Louis Olsen, Herbert La Resche, Bernie Johnson, and Pat Franklin, 16 years old, all of 4157 North Sacramento avenue. Greiner owns the boat.

All were thrown into the water, but managed to cling to its sides or remain afloat with life preservers. Greiner lighted a flare, bringing a speed boat and Capt. John O. Anderson, of the coast guard station, to the rescue.

Marriage Legalized

GLORIA STUART.

Carmel, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Film Actress Gloria Stuart and Scenario Writer Arthur Grant Sheekman made their marriage legally air-tight today by going through a civil ceremony before Police Judge George P. Ross. They were married in Agua Caliente, lower California, four years ago, but a recent California court decision raising a question as to the legality of Mexican ceremonies for nonresidents of that country prompted them to arrange for the union here.

SEEK POLICEMEN WHO REFUSED TO JOIN BANDIT HUNT

Supervising Capt. Joseph Goldberg will open an investigation today of charges that two policemen early yesterday refused aid to the victim of a holdup on the near north side.

The holdup victim is W. P. Kendrick, 1124 North Dearborn street. For fourteen years he has been employed by the same concern. Working on a night shift, he left the company's plant about 4:15 a. m. and started walking home. Shortly after 5 a. m., a little distance north of Chestnut street in State, he was seized from behind by two men in shirt sleeves and garroted.

"They took my money and my watch," Kendrick said. "Then they slugged and beat me and ran. I was badly cut and bruised and one eye was blackened. I ran into a tavern called Trotter's inn, at 868 North State street, to get help.

"Seated at the bar was a policeman. He was in uniform and wearing his gun. But his cap was on the head of a woman at the bar. When I asked him to help me catch the two robbers he denied he was a policeman. The woman hid his cap so I couldn't see the number.

"When I insisted on getting the number the policeman said, 'Get the hell out of here. I'm busy. And this ain't my district, anyway.'"

Kendrick then left the tavern, he said, and approached a second policeman, apparently on duty, who had stopped a motorist at the curb. Again he sought aid, only to have this policeman tell him, "It's none of my business."

ABSENT CORRIGAN IS HERO AS 30,000 IRISH CELEBRATE

The Kellys, O'Reillys, Finnegans, and other good Irish of Chicago—30,000 strong—gathered in Riverview park yesterday to celebrate Irish day.

Although officially called that, it was Corrigan day in the eyes of many, for the absent aviator was the hero of the day. Even the queen was named Corrigan, Rita H., of 552 West 62d street.

Edith Zentz, 22 years old, of 1713 North Park avenue, was chosen to represent Chicago on Irish day at the New York world's fair. Miss Zentz was eligible because her mother was born in County Mayo.

District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and Patrick J. Flannery spoke.

THE PURGER AND HIS PURPOSES.

Mr. Roosevelt in dictating the defeat of Senator Walter F. George of Georgia justified himself by saying he had a mandate. Saying he had always fought dictators and always would, he appeared before the people of Georgia as one. He said the voters had a perfect right to choose any candidate they wished, but Senator George was an outcast because he was a feudalist.

What are the political sins of Senator George which brought Mr. Roosevelt, fresh off his battle cruiser fishing boat, into the state to read a Democrat of sixteen years' service in the senate out of the party?

For one thing, the accused senator didn't believe that the President of the United States should be given the authority to pack the Supreme court with men selected for their pliancy and their predetermined willingness to violate their oath of office. He did not believe that the third branch of government should be reduced to a stamping device to make Mr. Roosevelt's contempt for the constitution a sufficient reason for not obeying it. That was Senator George's unforgivable sin.

A second sin was that he did not believe that Mr. Roosevelt's plan to reorganize the governmental agencies of the United States in order that the executive might subject all to his will would allow the American system to remain free and democratic. His third sin was that he did not believe John Lewis' C. I. O. communists should control both congress and the administrative government.

Senator George did not believe that these liberal ideas of Mr. Roosevelt were liberal, democratic or safe. He worked and voted against them and therefore Mr. Roosevelt says that the people of Georgia must defeat the senator who has served them for sixteen years; defeat him because he has endeavored to safeguard their stake in a free America.

Mr. Roosevelt said that twice he had been given a mandate. The truth is that twice he has been a candidate with concealed thoughts. Each time when some of his purpose was perceived in advance he has denied that he had such revolutionary proposals in mind and each time after he was elected he has disclosed that his ideas were a great deal more revolutionary than any one had suspected.

He has never as a candidate taken the voters into his confidence. He has never told them what he intended to do and he has called his opponents falsifiers when they were able to get behind his ambiguities, penetrate his fogs and see what he really meant.

His demand for the court bill came after his reëlection and it had not been foreshadowed by even a hint to the people. He hid the fact that he was politically obligated to John Lewis and the communists until Lewis presented him with a bond and demanded that he honor it.

Mr. Roosevelt has never had a mandate for the excesses of dictatorship he has undertaken to impose upon government because he has never thought it necessary in a campaign to say what he proposed to do. He confronts congress and the nation with revolutionary proposals which he all the time had up his sleeve and had never mentioned. He does not, as he told the people of Georgia, make recommendations for congress to translate into law but sends to Capitol Hill by messenger the completely drafted bill which is not to be modified by the changing of a word. Following such a bill the lobbyists of the White House fill the congressmen's offices and the halls of the houses, promising appropriations to men who will vote Yes and threatening the independent members with the blacklist and the purge.

Men who vote as Mr. Roosevelt dictates will be given federal money, and men who oppose him will be attacked in their states. He will try to throw them out of the party because they did not obey. The congress Mr. Roosevelt wants will be as subservient as he intended the Supreme court to be.

The government at Washington has become as completely the first person singular as it has in Berlin, Rome or Moscow. The only difference is that the American people have not yet learned to have such fear of the purge as prevails in other capitals. Mr. Roosevelt sees in himself a person set apart by an endowment of good will and intelligence superior to the qualifications of any one else in the country. The exercise of this good will and intelligence has prolonged the depression beyond any span of hard times ever before experienced in the United States, has deprived the older generation of most of its hopes of living to benefit much from a recovery and has given the younger generation a feeling of uncertainty new to youth in this country.

The evolution of an autocrat is nearly always moral. The first person singular in government becomes an exaggerated ego by feeding upon the flattery that no one else has the will to make people happier and no one else has the intelligence and the power to lead them out of their troubles.

Mr. Roosevelt is in this state of mind and, of course, that means in justice to the nation he must continue to be President and will seek the third term.

GOOD NEIGHBORS (MEX.)

Mexican expropriations of American owned properties have been imitated in Costa Rica, where the congress has voted to take over the plant of the Electric Bond and Share company, held by an affiliate known as the American Foreign Power. The excuse is a reorganization and rate controversy between the company and the Costa Rican national electric board. The expropriation measure authorizes the floating of a loan, if it can be had, to make compensation.

There has been a report that Mexico has been promoting a peculiar good neighbor policy [Mex.] of its own, suggesting that other Central American and South American countries follow its lead in expropriating foreign owned, particularly American owned, properties. Then Mexico would not feel isolated from standards of international good faith and fair dealing, but would be able to present a solid front of good neighbors, all getting a profit by taking what didn't belong to them. The Costa Rican episode may or may not give substance to that report.

Mr. Hull of our state department has made some protests to the Mexican government, particularly in behalf of the American holders of small farm lands who have been robbed. His tone has been milder than that of the British government, which withdrew its minister because of British oil properties taken without compensation. Mexico has had no difficulty in exchanging words with Mr. Hull and has informed him that inasmuch as it agrees it should make compensation there is nothing to be gained by submitting the question to arbitration. Mexico can easily concede the American point in principle, but the investors who had their property taken away from them will not be able to cash the concession for anything on the dollar.

Mexico, which is heading into bankruptcy because of its destruction of national income, state revenues, and pay rolls, can't raise the money to compensate for the expropriations. An answer it hasn't made yet to Mr. Hull, but may later, is that the New Deal taught it how to deal with investments. It might call upon Mr. Wendell Wilkie of the southern utilities pushed to the wall by TVA to bear witness that the Washington government doesn't hesitate to deprive a citizen of his property. President Cardenas might find numerous other instances in the United States to serve his purpose.

The robbing of American investors in other American countries probably will continue with the secret approval of the government in Washington, which desires to strengthen the precedent for the expropriation of property held by taxpaying citizens here.

GOOD-BY TO SQUADS RIGHT.

A great many people these days have the notion that if this country gets into a war our navy will promptly be sunk by airplane bombs and immediately thereafter our cities, our factories and ourselves will be blown to bits by the same means. It isn't going to happen that way, as a few hours spent observing the anti-aircraft fire at Fort Sheridan will readily demonstrate.

At the fort they're shooting with three inch rifles at a target much smaller than a bomber. The target towed by an airplane is a sleeve of cloth and after only a few brief bursts of fire it is generally pretty well torn. One morning last week the steel cable which tows it was blasted apart by shell fragments on three different occasions. Each time the target was about two miles up and was scudding along at a good 200 miles an hour.

That kind of wing shooting takes a lot of highly ingenious range finding and gun pointing apparatus. That is a story in itself. It also takes a new kind of soldier, and a new kind of discipline.

The men are trained technicians first and soldiers in the old sense only incidentally. The few old timers among them remember to stand at attention when addressing an officer and to say "Yes, sir," but the younger men are a good deal less correct in their behavior. Often they slouch and commonly they say "O. K." and "All set." Nobody seems to mind and, obviously, morale has not suffered in the least. On the contrary, it is high. They know they're good and they like their work. They go about their intricate business like a first class press crew in THE TRIBUNE. They fall into place instinctively and eagerly. The drive is there, but it doesn't come from outside; it comes from the men themselves.

The enlisted men look like under classmen in college and the young officers like trusted seniors. It is not like 1917, but we are not living in 1917.

Editorial of the Day

NO BANK HOLDUPS.

[Indianapolis News.]

No bandit attempted to hold up an Indiana bank during the first six months of this year. One night burglary at a bank in Burnettsville, Cass county, yielded $300. Three other attempts at safe-cracking—two at Carbon and one at Lapel—were unsuccessful. Bankers believe the record is due to a growing conviction among bandits that Indiana is no longer a safe place for them to operate.

This is the first year in more than fifteen years that no daylight robbery has been attempted at an Indiana bank. The greatest activity occurred when the Dillinger gangsters were rampant. They stole about $175,000 in 1933. The Brady gang attempted to follow in John Dillinger's footsteps, but although it was active, its income from Indiana banks was comparatively small. Nearly all banks are protected by burglar insurance, and it is not the actual loss that a banker fears. What he dreads is the nervous trigger finger of the daylight gangster who may shoot at the slightest provocation.

The Indiana Bankers' association started the movement that drove bank robbers out of this state. A citizens' committee, headed by Felix M. McWhirter, then president of the association, raised $30,000 and donated it to the state to help defray the expense of installing a state-wide police radio system. Since then many banks have come under federal protection because their deposits are insured by the government. The police radio network, the increased activity of state police and the coöperation between federal operatives and law enforcement agencies of nearby states make it nearly impossible for a daylight bandit to rob a bank in Indiana and escape.

Aunt Lizzie's Heart's Desire.

Last spring the Chamber of Commerce of Mountain View (pop. 600), our nearest town here in the Ozarks, hit upon a novel plan to insure big Saturday crowds throughout the summer. Knowing that all Missourians dearly love "trading," they devised a weekly auction sale in which "stage money" takes the place of real money. Each business house in town is provided with this fake money. Then, throughout the week, an amount of this fake money equivalent to the amount of real money spent for each purchase is given to the purchaser. At the end of the week each merchant then donates an amount of merchandise equal in price to the amount of fake money he has handed out. This hodgepodge of merchandise is auctioned off on Saturday afternoon for fake money only, bringing ridiculously inflated prices.

In this community, where real money must be spent carefully, it has been a real thrill to spend $14 for a screen door, or $9 for a gallon of sorghum, even if it is only stage money. It took Aunt Lizzie, my neighbor, who can neither read nor write, weeks and weeks to save up enough stage money to come within reach of her heart's desire. She came down from her cabin in the next ridge last Friday to tell me that she was going to town with Uncle John the next day. She was a-goin' to get something at that auction that she had wanted for y'ars and y'ars. She refused to tell what it was . . . just told me to wait and see!

Early Saturday morning we saw and heard them clattering past our corner in their unbelievably ancient open Model T. Aunt Lizzie, all dressed up in her best orchid sunbonnet (her religion forbids a hat) and the Big Apple smock I bought for her on Michigan avenue last Thanksgiving-time, waved gayly to me.

At Columbia schoolhouse they found the hollow flooded with several inches of muddy brown water, the result of the previous night's heavy rainfall. Uncle John started to drive through it . . . fording a stream a-foot and a-wheel being nothing new to a mountaineer. But Aunt Lizzie stopped him. Not with all that precious money in her pocket would she risk an upset or a bogged-down car. Taking off her high-topped shoes and black cotton stockings, she waded barefoot through the flood, seeking the hard stony tracks where Uncle John could safely drive the car. Then on to the auction!

Just before milking time we heard them clattering home again. I wasted no time in running up to see what treasure Aunt Lizzie had brought home. Was it a bright new dress? Was it a new stewing kettle? Was it a dozen oranges? Or some wall paper for the fireplace-blackened walls of her "big room"? No, it was none of these!

It was a year's subscription to the Mountain View weekly newspaper.

Another chapter in the story of Chicago is indicated by the remodeling of the handsome apartment building at 1200 Lake Shore drive, where the Thornes and Simpsons and Reeds and Schweppes kept town apartments for years, into two, three and four room apartments, so that tenants with more modest incomes can afford to live there. Work will start in two weeks' time. The last of the former tenants to leave are Robert Cabell, head of Armour & Co.; James Simpson, and Mrs. John L. Curtis. The building at 1200 Lake Shore drive with its seventeen room-seven bath apartments and that at 1550 North State parkway were the first de luxe apartments to be built, and it was a full ten years later, when the building boom began, that the other handsome flat buildings on the near north side were erected. Good roads and fast motor cars have brought the suburbs so close that today any one with a large enough family and means enough to occupy a sixteeen room apartment in a fashionable neighborhood wants to live in the country.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

UNDERWEIGHT AND SAGGING OF THE ABDOMEN.

As a rule, the long, thin, cadaverous type will include those individuals who are light eaters and who complain of digestive upsets of various kinds. When these patients are put to bed and subjected to a stuffing process many will gain weight, although a few will be rendered miserable because of the extra meals.

Nearly fifty years ago a French physician, Glenard, ascribed the symptoms displayed by these persons to the fact that the stomach had fallen so low that food failed to pass freely from the gastric pouch into the first part of the intestine called the duodenum. This was a reasonable explanation, as one readily can visualize the effect of a kink near the place where the stomach joins the bowel. When this occurs the patient may complain of a bloated, overfilled sensation as though the "innards" were tight as a drum.

This also permits us to comprehend why many of these victims obtain relief from vomiting or after drinking a large quantity of carbonated water, as the bubbling fluid will force particles upward and the liberated gases will aid their transport past the stomach exit. Others find comfort in lying on the "bread basket," as the pressure forces the abdominal contents upward, thus straightening out the channel and releasing the kink.

The "full" feeling, in many respects, closely imitates gall bladder disease, and no doubt some diagnoses of this latter disorder are made mistakenly. It is incumbent, therefore, upon the physician to consider first a simple mechanical hindrance to the passage of food before searching for some more serious malady.

Whenever the contracting power of the gastric muscles is strong, however, there is very little likelihood that food will remain overtime within the organ. Thus we find many of these structures which have assumed grotesque positions, but perform with perfect efficiency.

A case was called to my attention recently in which a tall, spare man of 55 years sought treatment for "dyspepsia." He described bloating after meals, sour material rising in the mouth, nausea with occasional vomiting, constipation, some dizziness, and severe headaches. About two years earlier he had had influenza, with a subsequent reduction of forty pounds in weight. Digestive troubles had been present since that time.

A careful examination showed no abnormality within the alimentary tube. Secretions were adequate and there seemed to be no reason why food should not be taken care of with ease. X-ray films disclosed, however, that because the stomach had "dropped," due to loss of flesh, a sharp bend was present near the point of discharge similar to the constriction that may occur in a garden hose.

It was decided to attempt to straighten out this pathway. To bring this about, the patient was given four or five relatively small meals daily and instructed to kneel on the bed, the body inclined forward, with the head resting upon the mattress [knee-chest position]. This posture was prescribed for fifteen minutes following each meal. Much to the surprise to every one, this proved to be the needed maneuver. Within a short time all signs of indigestion disappeared and a gain in poundage followed.

Most of us realize that well-being depends on the proper functioning of the gastrointestinal tract, and that fatigue, headaches, abdominal pains, even vertigo can occur after what may be equivalent to an intestinal obstruction. Many a so-called bilious attack may be traced to this particular form of stoppage. The same excellent results may be secured by lying flat on the stomach with the foot of the bed raised ten or twelve inches. After a time, if improvement is evident, an abdominal support may be utilized.

The diet should be high in calories and vitamins, with the objective of increasing weight and thus allowing nature to provide the padding necessary to prevent sagging of the organs.

MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS.

Mrs. M. H. writes: My husband has been bedridden for seven years, being totally paralyzed from the hips down with multiple sclerosis. X-rays of his spine and blood tests have revealed nothing. I have heard there is a successful operation for such cases. Is this true? If not, what is best for him?

REPLY.

Multiple sclerosis—sometimes called disseminated sclerosis—as a rule is a chronic, slowly progressing disease. Treatment consists in rest, with high nutrition, and many physicians ascribe good results to such drugs as arsenic and potassium iodide. Protein shock—that is, the injection of some protein to produce a fever—has been helpful in a number of cases. Surgery is not recommended.

RATS IN SHED.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—A vacant shed on the rear of a lot in our block is infested with rats and is a breeding place for them. The neighbors have been fighting this menace of rats for years, but we do not seem to make any headway because of the shed, which is very old and shaky. It should be torn down or cemented around the base. F. G.

Our inspector reports the frame shed on the rear of the lot is in need of repairs. The owner has been notified to make repairs necessary to keep this shed continuously in a good and safe condition. If the work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice we will proceed according to law.

ROOSEVELT AND 1940.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 12.—Query: Will Roosevelt run again in 1940?

Fortunately, for the people, I believe he will. Our honorable President has one trait which has been handed down through the Roosevelt family, to me one of the most unbearable faults—egotism. This very same egotism which put Theodore Roosevelt in the race for a third term will do the same for Franklin D.

I said fortunately for the people. I meant that it will give the honest and ambitious Americans, who think not of themselves and their income first, but who consider the country and its welfare way before, a chance to down this egotist and all his C. I. O. helpers. Lewis has been getting his, and Roosevelt is going to follow the proverb which says, "Give a man enough rope and he'll hang himself," and get his. Roosevelt will not only be turned down by the Democratic convention in 1940 but he will be defeated terrifically on any ticket he runs in the election. I contend you can beat a fake Santa Claus.

Meanwhile I say to Republicans, our chance lies in putting up a strong man, and so I say, "Don't forget a man by the name of Henry Cabot Lodge Jr."

A SPLASH HERE; A SPLASH THERE.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—The contemporary artistic junk, so much junk [in the WPA exhibit and otherwise]—it made me think what a poverty of talent we had despite the great squeal for artistic release. With so much for subjects how can artists be so barren?

A cocksure splash here and a not-so-cocksure splash there is exactly just a couple of splashes. This goes also for lines eccentrically jagged or carelessly drawn, and for colors riotously sloppy, confidently smudgy, and a bad bedlam in general. Where is your tact, your technique, your seeing eye, your sense of superb beauty? Where are the messages which carry a cry for many reforms, and which it is in your power to give? MARION FRADIN.

THIS HABIT CALLED "PURGING."

Muscatine, Ia., Aug. 11.—There is a new epidemic sweeping the world—a disease called "purge." Hitler first purged the Jews, then Mussolini caught it. It is now sweeping the United States. F. D. R. has caught it in a different form. He is "purging" disloyal congressmen. John L. Lewis is "purging" his ranks, the members of the President's cabinet are purging their departments.

Isn't it about time the American public caught the disease and "purged" our country of all these communists, Fascists or whatever you choose to call them? We're in danger of becoming a nation of Charlie McCarthys with somebody pulling the strings and telling us how to vote, how to run our business, how much corn, oats or hogs to raise, how much we can pay our employes and how long they may work.

G. MORRISON.

UNCLE SAM THE GREAT BUYER.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Today's TRIBUNE tells of the government buying 20,000,000 pounds of butter and $7,000,000 worth of ready-made clothing. It also is making plans to enter the cabbage market. This puts Uncle Sam in first place as a buyer. I think the New Deal would be doing a greater service if it could present a plan whereby I with perhaps millions of my countrymen could honestly earn enough so we could buy our own food and clothing.

Butter has become a thing of the past in my home and new clothing is setting a fast pace in the same direction.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT.

EMBARRASSING LA FOLLETTE.

Spring Green, Wis., Aug. 12.—The hypocrisy of the paternalistic sham being rationed to both farmers and labor by politics has seldom been shown up in more dramatic light than in the current controversy at Richland Center between members of the farmers' coöperative creamery and a half dozen semi-skilled milk workers with outside labor backing. Here are found about 1,100 dairy producers working their heads off to get an average of around $100 a month, at the mercy of a few milk processing employés who demand $200 or more a month to handle that which the farmers produce at the cost of unending labor, investment charges, specific training, and the hazards of perishable products.

Both the farmers and labor are sincere voters. The astute Gov. La Follette, therefore, slithered out of the middle and handed the issue to the National Labor Relations board. The governor and labor board both are now engaged in attempts to wriggle out, without going on record. In this case labor is descending upon a group of horny handed workers and not upon a group of economic royalists. The victims are pretty important voters. The professional "friends" of farm and labor are in a hole. So are the disturbers. Both the governor and labor board should be tear gassed into the open and made to announce a verdict, definitly and now. While there is little likelihood it will be forthcoming it will at least stimulate the alibi bump in the political cranium. H. R.

COULD THIS REFER TO GUFFEY?

Chicago, Aug. 12.—The shakedown of the WPA workers in Pennsylvania for compaign funds by a mediocre New Deal machine boss marks a new low in practical politics. Of course these contributions are supposed to be voluntary but as every political jobholder knows a request for money from a boss politician is a demand. It means kick in or else! This spectacle of a rancid politician thrusting his sticky fingers into the meager pay envelopes of poor WPA workers is likely to be ignored or excused by the New Deal high command since the offender is an ardent 100 per cent supporter of the New Deal. In other words, he is a "true liberal."

Incidentally, this man's a United States senator. C. R. N.

ADMITS JIMMY WORKED HARDER.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Never mind, Jimmy. My father didn't help me, either. If you earned $170,000 in your first five years of business life and I was earning $23.08 per week at 25 and $28.85 at 30, it just shows that you tried harder. Every one understands. A. P. LODDER.

CALLS IT A TEST OF SKILL.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—I should hate to have as my counsel a lawyer who couldn't tell the difference between the Washington Park patrons' handicapping contest and "bank night," "screeno" and "bingo."

In the handicapping contest you have the right of choice which makes it a game of skill; in the other three mentioned you have no choice. This makes them games of chance.

The handicapping contest belongs in the same category as all these radio contests. If they are legal then the handicapping contest should be. [And I should be explaining this to a lawyer!]

The angle of people having "no business" at tracks or bookmakers' shops makes me laugh. If nobody did anything that he had no business to do this would be heaven instead of earth. How about the people in taverns or at poker tables who have no business there, and the man out with the other fellow's wife or vice versa? I could go on forever naming the "no business" kind.

Yours for tolerance as well as consistency. G. E. R. TRUDE.

VISITOR GETS THE "RUN AROUND."

Chicago, Aug. 12.—On July 28 I was driving north on the outer drive and stopped for a stoplight at Belmont avenue. While waiting for the light to change to green my car was struck by a Chicago Park district truck. The truck did quite a damage to my car and the driver admitted the accident was entirely his fault—he claimed he could not stop.

Everything was fine—he told me to see his superior, E. E. Claybaugh, and collect for the damage done to my car. I wasted two days trying to collect and I have been sent from one department head to the next, all in vain. I really got the run around. I think I have seen every big shot in the park district.

This accident happened during your "Chicago Courtesy Week."

ASKS A POLICY OF PRAISE.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—I have been a reader of your paper over twenty years. Am surprised the way you knock our President. I should think a paper like THE TRIBUNE would get tired of knocking, but give our President a few words of praise.

You publish time and again that he is driving this country to ruin. I have not as yet read in your paper what any other party or parties have to offer to bring us back to normal conditions.

Miss Betty Lord Becomes Bride of Texan in Fall

BY JUDITH CASS.

An announcement of interest is the one that Mrs. Russell Lord made on Saturday of the engagement of her elder daughter, Betty, to be married to William Mac Lingo Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mac Lingo of Dallas, Tex. The wedding is planned for the autumn, and Mr. Lingo will take his bride to Dallas to live.

The Texas city is as much home to Miss Lord as is Chicago, for her mother, as Kathleen Murphy, lived there, and Mrs. Lord and her daughters have spent much time there since they returned from an extended stay abroad several years ago. Miss Lord made a Dallas debut two years ago and last fall she was introduced in Chicago at a reception at the Casino.

Lake Forest was the home of the Lord family before Mr. Lord's death some years ago, but after that Mrs. Lord and her children lived abroad until a few years ago. The younger daughter, Kathleen, is at school at Dobbs Ferry. Miss Betty Lord studied in Vienna, Paris, and Oxford during the years she and her mother and sister were abroad.

Wedding Will Take Place in Lake Forest.

The Lords were abroad again this summer, but returned a fortnight ago and are living in Lake Forest, where the wedding will take place. The service will be read in the Church of the Holy Spirit, the chimes in which are a memorial to the late Russell Lord. Mr. Lingo is a Yale man, class of 1936. He prepared for college at the Hill school.

The wedding of Miss Lida Whitmore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dwight Whitmore, to Benjamin Crawford, son of Mrs. Frank T. Crawford of Winnetka, will take place at 4:30 o'clock on Sept. 6 at the home of the bride's parents in Valley, a suburb of Omaha, Neb.

After a honeymoon Mr. Crawford and his bride will live on the north shore.

McBain Family to Sail for Holland This Week.

As summer draws to a close there are more European vacationers homeward bound than sailing eastward. Among those off, however, for an ocean trip on a late summer holiday are Mr. and Mrs. Hughston M. McBain of Winnetka and their three children, Jimmy, Peggy, and Grace, who are sailing for Holland at the end of this week.

They are leaving Chicago Friday morning by airplane and are sailing from New York that midnight in the Veendam. Although they are accomplishing the first part of their trip with speed and dispatch, the McBains will have a leisurely two weeks to become acquainted with life in the Netherlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering and their son, Edmund II., landed from the Georgic in New York Saturday and arrived at home in Chicago yesterday. They were to have spent the rest of the summer at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest, which burned recently, so their plans are a bit indefinite. The Doerings were in Paris for the wedding of their daughter, Nancy, and Harold Hartog, which took place last month.

James Simpsons Arrive from Europe This Week.

The James Simpsons are returning this week from a month's holiday in England, Germany, and France.

Mrs. Albert B. Pattou and her daughter, Mardo, sailed last Wednesday for a six weeks' trip abroad.

Veteran trans-Atlantic travelers are Mrs. Trevor Stamp and Mrs. Gordon Fadley of London, daughters of Mrs. Charles H. Bosworth of Evanston, who are in Evanston now. The Hon. Trevor Stamp, whose father, Sir Josiah Stamp, was made a peer recently and now is Lord Stamp of Sharplands, is here with his wife. He will return to London in a few weeks. Mrs. Stamp and her sister will cross

College Shops Have Right Togs for Any Campus

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The college shops are open and ready for the annual rush of questing freshmen. These shops are filled to capacity with high fashion loot in clothes and accessories, outfits that will assure a good impression at any educational stronghold. Such shops will be among the city's busiest places from now until the last trunk is packed.

An exciting tour of these shops gave this style reporter some new fashion ideas which we want to pass along. The plaids are bright and vivid—sometimes to the point of being gaudy. But the plaids make the snappiest of campus costumes. Slim waisted dresses in thin wool plaid have jauntily flared short skirts. Some dresses look like smart suits. And the suits are made with short fitted jackets. Plaids also are used for topcoats and blouses. And plaid linings appear in the double duty coats, those with one side for rain and another for shine.

College wardrobes this season stress a slim, well groomed smoothness. Anything that doesn't fit comfortably and smoothly is out. Underlayers are extremely important. A good girdle will give these clothes the stylish streamline effect.

Sweaters still are teamed with separate skirts. Though sweaters keep their top style rating, the fitted separate jackets are gaining fashion speed. All are priced with a thought for modest budgets, so some of each can be included.

Velvet and velveteen fashion the prize winning party clothes. Dirndls steal the sportlight in thin sheers or thin crêpes for afternoon or date dresses. Footgear of good, sturdy materials and design is neat and smart. No more sloppy shoes. Our thanks to the designers.

All the college shops have upper class students from the various schools to help freshmen and their mothers make selections. These advisers know all and tell all. With the help of these advisers any girl can get a complete college wardrobe. You can spend little, a moderate sum, or a great deal. The advisers will help you select the best clothes for the money and clothes that will be considered smart at the school you will attend.

Helen Hayes to Play Portia on Broadway; Drops Year's Rest

Suffern, N. Y., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Helen Hayes, star of "Victoria Regina," which is to reopen on Oct. 3 at the Martin Beck theater, New York, for a return engagement, disclosed here tonight that she had abandoned her plan to leave the stage for a year after closing in Laurence Housman's play and that she would appear on Broadway next season as Portia in "The Merchant of Venice."

Miss Hayes' decision followed the announcement that a scheduled two-week tryout of "The Merchant of Venice" at the County theater here had been canceled because of difficulty in casting three important rôles. Instead Miss Hayes will appear here for two weeks, starting Aug. 29, in James M. Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows."

Miss Hayes said the time of her New York appearance in "The Merchant of Venice" will be determined in a conference with Gilbert Miller, producer of "Victoria Regina."

BY CECIL SMITH.

With no national celebrities to serve as magnets the two Grant park concerts of the week-end still attracted thousands upon thousands to the vicinity of the white band shell. Music itself, quite as much as the prominence of those who interpret it, has become the real lure for the countless Chicagoans who support the park district's summer project.

Last night Izler Solomon and his orchestra [a composite of Illinois, Chicago, and Woman's Symphony orchestra players] fulfilled their second and last engagement of the summer, offering an all French program with Anna Kreutgen, well known Chicago mezzo-soprano, as soloist. Saturday evening's conductor was Walter H. Steindel, and his soloist was Esther Hart, soprano, with whom he was associated in June at the German-American song festival.

The park was a windswept arena last night. One especially vicious gust blew away the music of a stand of cellos, sending it scudding far out into the audience. Later a basket containing a floral tribute to Mrs. Kreutgen quite in scale with the immensity of the audience went toppling over at the outset of her first encore and had to be held upright through the rest of the song by an attendant. Even a piece of the band shell blew off, working minor havoc in the nearby shrubbery.

These meteorological contretemps did not keep Mr. Solomon and his uniquely co-educational group from turning out a handsome version of the luminous Chausson symphony. The conductor's beat was as clear and persuasive as his gauging of tempo and dynamics. He is especially at ease in moments of transition from one musical idea to another, and these are the spots at which unskilled conductors are most inclined to reveal their lack of command. With the exception of the supremely difficult brass chorale at the end, the orchestra played extremely well.

Familiar items filled the rest of the program—Massenet's "Phèdre"-overture, Dukas' "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," Saint-Saëns' "Danse Macabre," Chabrier's "España," and Enesco's first "Rumanian Rhapsody." This last item found its way onto a French program by courtesy, I suppose, in view of its Rumanian composer's long residence in Paris.

Mrs. Kreutgen displayed her large, rich voice to the approval of her audience. Her tone would, however, be improved by more dependable breath support and more authentic French diction.

Saturday's concert was competent without ever touching any point of special excellence. As always, Mr. Steindl showed himself an admirably routined conductor and Miss Hart herself an equally confident singer. The program was a popular melange ranging from Brahms and Wagner to Romberg.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Week's Wash

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14.—Libby Holman's next, if her intimates have gauged it correctly, will be Jerry White, stage manager of the Clifton Webb-Lupe Velez-Holman show. He was divorced recently. . . . Judging from George Raft's sitdown strike at Paramount his "Spawn of the North" must be a great picture [performers never strike after they've made a bad one]. . . . Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. in listing the best hostesses in Hollywood rates Doris Warner Le Roy, No. 1; Carmen Considine, No. 2; Mrs. Harry Lachmann, No. 3. Throw his selections out and rate them this way: No. 1, Joe Schenck; No. 2, Dorothy Di Frasso; No. 3, Mrs. Hal Roach; No. 4, Mrs. Jack Warner; No. 5, Edward Everett Horton, and you'll have a truer picture of Hollywood.

Wendy Barrie and Lee Bowman will talk it over with a preacher. . . . Will Rogers Jr. prefers Eleanor Harris. . . . Phil Harris and Tony Martin, busting records around the country, have pepped up the band field. . . . Despite reports, Zorina won't wed Ballanchine or any of her N. Y. escorts. . . . Gloria Blondell and Casey Roberts making it a habit. . . . Maxwell Anderson is trying to get Walter Huston, Ray Middleton, and Ann Sothern or Della Lind for his musical. . . . Carmine Calhoun, the looker with Skinny Ennis' band, has the local playboys talking to themselves.

When this reporter, after the local première of "Alexander's Ragtime Band," declared that it was the greatest entertainment ever produced in Hollywood, you should have heard the derisive hoots at the Beverly Brown Derby. The picture, of course, is cracking records all over the country. One mastermind from M.-G.-M., that night at the Brown Derby, declared that the picture would end the Zanuck legend by costing his studio a fortune. Uh-huh!

Despite the July heat Ritz Brothers turned in a $50,000 week at Lou Lipstone's Chicago theater, topping the marks set by Martha Raye and Rudy Vallee. Your reporter is really distressed to hear this. I go into the Chicago theater Sept. 16 and don't like to follow record crackers. . . . Papers in the Clark Gable rift are being prepared, finally. . . . Arleen Whalen will become Mrs. Richard Green. . . . Norma Shearer chose Tyrone Power to celebrate her birthday, before Chief-ing out. . . . Margaret Lindsay and Jack Otterson are getting serious. . . . Rochelle Hudson prefers Vic Orsatti to Honolulu. . . . Only thing Marjorie Weaver got in Reno—was a milk shake, at a corner drug store. . . . Tommy Dorsey and Hal Kemp are planning a night club in New York. John Steinberg is flying east shortly to discuss it. It would be on the site of the old Flying Trapeze.

When Gladys Swarthout makes her last Paramount picture the movies will be all washed up with operatic prima donnas. Movie fans thumbed 'em out. . . . Add Crises: Miami Beach is mad at Sam Goldwyn because he is photographing in California scenes supposed to be laid in Florida. It would be a better publicity stunt if this column mentioned the picture. . . . Louis Shurr, who always adored the blondes, is squiring Virginia Daly, a brunette. . . . Adrienne Ames and Sam Berman tête-à-têting. . . . Larry Schwab may team Robert Halliday with Natalie Hall if the deal can be set. . . . Isabel Jewell and Richard Carlson in a deep huddle at Lamaze's.

The Harry Ritzes expect Sir Stork. . . . Glenda Farrell and Van Smith something new in pairs. . . . Lupe Velez with Henry Wilcoxon. . . . Patricia Ellis with young Wally Brooks. . . . Hollywood critics this month pick Norma Shearer and Mickey Rooney as the top actress and actor of the month. Miss Shearer for her "Marie Antoinette" and Mickey for "Love Finds Andy Hardy." Best supporting performances go to Marie Wilson, in "Boy Meets Girl," and Robert Morley, in "Marie Antoinette," which is rated the best picture released in July. . . . Collette Lyons and Tom Barry an item. . . . Billie Seward with Jack Tavelman. . . . Eleanor Whitney, in bed for three weeks after a tonsil operation, suffered another relapse.

Beverly Hills streets are jammed with motor tourists who halt their cars at movie stars' homes and snap pictures. . . . Tourists are most impressed by the shoe-shine man who motors from home to home and shines the shoes at the curbs. In front of the J. Walter Ruben [Virginia Bruce] home the motorized shoe-shiner was cleaning a dozen pairs of white shoes and tourists were snapping pictures as fast as they could load and shoot. . . . Rose Davies with Prince David Mdivani. . . . Prince Mike Romanoff and Dick Merrill in a long discussion—about the DC-4. Merrill piloted the big Douglas the other day and says that the tricycle landing gear marks a new stage in airplane safety. Pilots, incidentally, are sure that the Hawaiian Clipper must have exploded in mid-air. They point out that the co-pilot immediately notifies his radio contact of the slightest thing that goes wrong with a plane. The fact that the Hawaiian Clipper radio man did not have time in which to make an emergency report indicates that the plane exploded—or so say the coast pilots.

BY ANNA NANGLE.

The damn Yanks and the rebels are at it again in this western. It all breaks loose in Texas during the reconstruction period after the civil war, and the argument drags across half the country before it's over. The bone of contention is a herd of cattle, and you can see them and hear them moo through dust storms, snow storms, fire, Indian raids, and capture by the cavalry, through rivers and across the prairies.

Joan Bennett is the stubborn little rebel who owns them all, and I must say she stands the rigors of the trip and the elements much better than the cattle. In her ruffles and furbelows of the period she has a delicate, cameolike beauty, and even after some pretty close contact with a band of Comanches, every hair is in place. Randolph Scott is her brainy, brawny, and unwanted assistant, and May Robson her grandmother, a fiery old lady who manages to drink one smart-alecky carpetbagger right under the table.

The film is lavishly produced, has some excellent photography, and several capable performers handling character rôles, but for all that, seems to plod along, head down, in a manner similar to that of the cattle involved, before it finally reaches a conclusion. The story is long and roundabout.

Some one with a very pleasant voice sings "There's Silver on the Sage" to guitar accompaniment, and does a smooth job of it.

Miss Bennett, Mr. Scott, Miss Robson, and Mr. Barrat are adequate to the needs of their rôles, and the cattle make out all right, too.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

(Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxon arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. She meets Steve Hayward, a neighbor ranch owner, who tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary attitude toward him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack.

INSTALMENT VII.

A MISSING RIFLE.

Tim pulled out his pipe and slowly filled it, while Anne and Steve waited for him to go on.

"Jake Collins came out with Doc Bryant and the sherif for some reason I could never get to the bottom of. The Doc said the old man died of heart failure. The sherif accepted his verdict and poohpoohed me when I pointed out the mess things was in.

"Jake was mighty vociferous explainin' how the old man must have been took with a sudden fit to look for something, and had plumb overexerted himself and died as a natural consequence of the same." Tim drew silently on his pipe for a minute, then added, "We deemed mighty high of each other, the old man and me."

Anne felt sudden tears dim her eyes. "You haven't told us what you think actually did happen," she reminded him gently.

"Here's how I see the picture," Tim went on. "My notion is that Jake Collins came over that night, badgering the old man to sell him some of his land, and like as not bringin' some new pressure to break down the old man's resistance.

"In the heat of the argument Jake may've even snatched the old man's rifle out of the rack and threatened him. Anyway, the excitement brought on the heart attack that finished your uncle. My notion is that Jake took the gun away with him, for fear finger marks might give him away.

"Before he left, I've a hunch he made a systematic search of the place, lookin' for the old man's will. Nobody knew anything about his havin' any family. Not even me. The old man was a close mouthed cuss.

"I reckon Jake figured the old man may have left the ranch to me, so if he could find the will and destroy it, the property'd revert to the state, him havin' no relatives. Then Jake could buy it in cheap. But all the time the old man's real will was lyin' there in the vault of the bank. Jake got fooled—and so did I!"

This last was muttered so low

"Tim, I have a terrible confession to make."

that Anne could hardly catch it. When she did get the meaning, she leaned forward with an impulsive resolve to pull this bitterness of Tim's out in the open, and face it here and now.

"I'm sorry I was the one to wreck your hopes, Tim," Anne began, "but——"

"Don't you be sorry! I was an old fool to be entertainin' hopes anyway, at my age!" Tim's eyes did not match the gruffness of his voice. "He was right to leave it to his own flesh and blood. I've got no kick comin'." He abruptly got up and left the shack.

Anne wiped the corner of her eye as she and Steve got up to go.

"I'll have to be shovin' off, I reckon," Steve walked along beside her, but stopped at the steps. "I'd better get the car back tonight. Sure you won't change your mind about staying?"

"I'm sure, I want to stay," Anne held out her hand. "I don't know how I can thank you for all you've done for me!"

Electric tingling response ran up her arm at the mighty hand clasp he gave her.

"I didn't do anything," he disclaimed, "but if you need any help, let me know. I'll be seeing you soon. So long." He made for the slope beyond the ranch house.

Anne watched him take the steep ascent in his swinging stride. He disappeared over the top. A moment later the sputtering back fire of the motor cut across the silence. Her eyes on the sunset, a half smile on her lips, Anne listened until the hum of the engine was lost in the deep stillness of the mesa.

Anne woke the next morning with a shiver. She swung herself out of the hammock, her teeth chattering, her toes like lumps of ice in her stockings.

Dawn tinted the eastern sky as she paced up and down the porch trying to restore her circulation. It was even harder to restore her mental equilibrium as she reviewed the last twenty-four hours.

Why, it wasn't even twenty-four hours! Into that short space of time deeper and more varied emotions had crowded than in the whole last year in New York. She had felt panic, disappointment, surprise, excitement, elation, anticipation, struggle, and victory over another's will.

Anne gave a reminiscent smile at the thought of Whitey, a great blond giant who seemed to suffer painfully from shyness. She had been able to extract nothing from him beyond a "Yes ma'am" or a "No ma'am," boomed out in a deep bass voice.

One of the "yes ma'ams" had been in response to her request that he stay on with Tim. With that achievement she had had to be content for that moment.

"There'll be plenty of time to break through his embarrassment and get him used to me," she murmured. "I'll get him to teach me to ride and then surprise Steve with how much I know," she planned, "only the first thing is to get the house in order."

Her eyes darkened as she glanced at the heavy, closed front door. Was Tim's theory right about that last tragic night of her uncle's life?

"I'm not going to have anything more to do with Jake Collins than I have to," she thought. "As for his daughter, we'd never get on!"

Was there anything between Gwen and Steve?

There was no doubt about Gwen's possessiveness. Anne thought back to the scene in the restaurant. She had to admit that Steve had more or less accepted Gwen's attitude. They knew each other well, of course, having been thrown together so much on the range, but was it more than that?

Anne left Shep and went back to the hammock where she exchanged the ridiculously incongruous satin mules for her shoes.

Pulling open the front door she resolutely attacked the chaos inside.

She held her breath until she opened all the windows to let the fresh air blow through and purify the room. Lingering suggestions of that tragic night lurked in the corners like some noisome poison gas.

With swift energy Anne picked up papers and piled them pell mell into the desk, closing and locking it. There would be time enough to sort those out later.

Next she cleared away the dishes, carrying them out to the kitchen where she left them in the sink to soak. Returning to the living room she picked up scattered odds and ends of clothes, putting them in piles to give them away.

There was something strangely touching in some of the things that had obviously been very much a part of her uncle's life. Anne felt a lump in her throat as she laid aside his battered old Stetson and sheepskin coat.

She had reached the stage of pulling the furniture out on the porch when Tim appeared.

"Here! Whitey and I can do this yere job," he remonstrated, "you'll get yourself plumb tired out!"

"I don't tire out as easily as that," Anne said. "I'd be a pretty poor bet to run a cattle ranch if I did! But I'd love to have you give me a hand, Tim," she paused and smiled up at him, "I have a terrible confession to make."

"Yeah?" Tim's eyes rested with evident approval on her bright hair, escaping in gleaming curls about her ears.

"I don't know how to ride! I've never been on a horse!"

Tim's jaw dropped.

"Never been on a horse!" he echoed. "Well, I'll be——" he abruptly refrained from saying what he'd be. "How come yuh've never been on a horse?"

"I never had a chance ir the east," Anne explained, "but I'm going to learn right away. Do you suppose Whitey would teach me?"

"Would he?" Tim gave a droll wink, "I surmise, considerin' the way he was bustin' loose about yuh last night, there ain't anything he'd like better. Only we ain't got any exactly what yuh'd call dude horses."

"I don't want a 'dude horse,'" Anne said. "Naturally I expect to take some falls, but that doesn't matter. How soon will Whitey be about?"

"He's throwin' the breakfast together now," Tim answered, "yuh might have a tryout right after. He's got to line up some strays this morning, but he could start a mite late."

Parents Urge Girl to Wed Her Rich Beau

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Louise reports that she is 18 and has been going out with a middle-aged man, who is her father's best friend. This man has been waiting for Louise since she was 10 years of age. He now is well off, while her parents never have been able to accumulate much for themselves on account of long spells of sickness and unemployment. Father and mother urge the young woman into marriage with the middle-aged man, as he promises to take good care of her parents as well as of Louise.

Louise wonders if it is not a mistake for a girl of her age to marry a man of her father's age. There is a boy a couple of years her senior for whom she has romantic longings and the boy himself would pay her more attention, Louise feels, if her father and mother would permit it. They discourage his coming to see their girl and treat him rudely each time he appears.

We cannot see a shred of justice or of parental love, Louise, in your father and mother urging you into being their meal ticket. That's frankly what their marriage pressure amounts to, even though they may try to call it by some other name. They did not make any such sacrifice for their parents, did they? Then, why should you?

If you love the younger man and he loves you, and there is no other way out, just run off with him and be married. It is possible that arguing with your parents would be of no avail.

They would present the money side of the other marriage to you in glowing terms and accuse you of being an ungrateful girl "after all they had done for you, etc."

But it remains youth's privilege to rebel at marriage with a man years older because he happens to be able to provide you now with comforts and luxuries that your own boy will be able to give you later on, when you will have more need for them.

You young people, Louise, do not need to start out with luxuries. Your companionship, your planning together, your building and growing up together are the real luxuries of living. So, don't be railroaded into a marriage that means satisfaction only to your parents.

Make Foreign Policy an Issue at the Polls, Women Voters Urge

A national campaign to inject questions of American foreign policy into the coming congressional elections was launched yesterday by the National League of Women Voters.

The announcement came from Mrs. Louise Leonard Wright, 5744 Blackstone avenue, chairman of the league's department of government and foreign policy. The campaign, she explained, was not to put candidates "on the spot," but to call their attention to increasing interest in international affairs.

Neutrality and trade agreements are the two principal foreign policy matters of immediate interest to the league, she said. In this regard, she urged that the records of candidates who have been in office be examined as to their votes.

As an example of the American people's interest in international affairs, she cited the war debts. There is not a debate on foreign policy in congress, she said, in which they are not mentioned.

If your studio couch is looking a little the worse for wear you can give it a new lease on life with a slip cover. These covers are nicely tailored and are done in attractive printed linens and crashes. Covers for the three pillows are included.

One set we liked especially was light yellow with a floral pattern in tones of green and white. Less expensive were other sets that had blue, or brown or green backgrounds. Box plaits finished the covers around the hemline. Youngsters going back to college will find these flowered slip covers answer a long felt need.

Fruit cakes suggest Christmas and the holiday season, that is, the old-fashioned richly fruited cakes do. But I'd like to introduce two non-holiday fruit cakes, one made with prunes, the other with fresh peaches. They're not at all like the heavy winter fruit cakes. Light and fluffy in texture, they're really butter spice cakes with fruit added.

Spiced Prune Cake

[Two 9 inch layers]

2½ cups sifted cake flour
¾ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup cooked, seeded prunes, cut coarsely
1 cup sour milk or buttermilk

Sift flour, measure, and resift three times with baking powder, soda and spices. Cream butter well and beat in the sugar until the mixture is very light. Add eggs and prune pulp, and mix thoroughly. Add flour and milk, a small amount at a time, beating well after each addition. Bake in two greased 9 inch layer pans in a 375 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes.

Caramel Frosting for Prune Cake

1½ cups brown sugar, packed firmly
½ cup granulated sugar
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon butter

Cook sugar and milk together until a soft ball is formed in cold water, 232 degrees. Add butter and remove from heat. Cool to lukewarm, 110 degrees, before beating. [If beaten while hot, frosting will be grainy.] Beat until thick and creamy. Spread on cake. This makes enough frosting for two 9 inch layers.

This one's a favorite at my house. A little molasses and a few tablespoonfuls of cold coffee give it a delectable flavor. Half the recipe will make eight or ten cup cakes.

Peach Spice Cake

[Two 9 inch layers]

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ginger
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¾ teaspoon cloves
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3 tablespoons molasses
7 tablespoons cold coffee
1 cup sliced fresh peaches

Sift flour, measure, and resift three times with baking powder, salt and spices. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and beat together until fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add molasses and blend. Alternate flour mixture and coffee, a little at a time, beating until smooth after each addition. Fold in peaches. Bake in two greased 9 inch layer pans in a 375 degree oven for 25 minutes, or until done. Frost with seven minute frosting or any butter frosting.

This is a good place to mention my department's booklet, "Baking the Perfect Cake," which thousands of homemakers now have and thousands more ought to have. Twenty-three cents in stamps, by mail, will bring it. Address requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

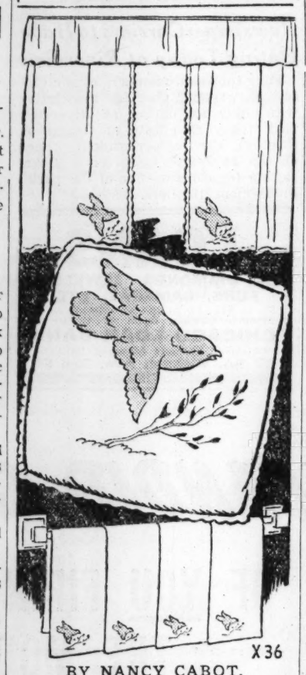
Bluebirds Afford a Cheerful Motif for Embroidery



BY NANCY CABOT.

Bluebirds always are popular, and when embroidered in the corners of curtains they will make a room bright and cheerful. The large one makes a very effective pillow. Guest towels always are admired. The birds are worked in an outline stitch, leaving the twig and leaves to be worked in the satin stitch.

For a pattern of the above design, No. X36, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Sufficient Autos Assured for Picnic of Aged and Orphans

Chicago's orphans, dependent crippled children and aged will have their annual picnic in Lincoln park on Wednesday after all. Hobart J. Thurber, president of the Orphans' Automobile Day association, reported yesterday that a shortage in automobiles which for a time endangered the holding of the affair has been relieved by the contribution of more than 500 cars in the last few weeks.

About 200 more cars, he said, will be needed to take care of the thousands who attend the picnic each year. All automobile owners who wish to offer the use of their cars should communicate with M. J. Lamb at Dearborn 0718 or Dearborn 0719. Cash contributions may be mailed to John P. Keating, secretary, 5637 North Ashland avenue.

Dandruff Can Be Conquered with Brushing

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A correspondent writes of the tragic loss of hair she has suffered the last year.

"It need not have happened," she writes, "if I had taken dandruff more seriously in its earlier stages. I would not now be virtually denuded of hair but, like many other people, I erroneously believed that dandruff wasn't important. I write only to warn other sufferers from dandruff. I write to mothers, particularly, to make their youngsters brush their hair. I never was made to do it, although my mother used to talk about the dandruff in my hair."

True, dandruff was ignored by a former generation. They went on the assumption that ever one suffered some dandruff and they would outgrow it. Now, the right procedure is to look upon dandruff as a skin disease or other disorder with serious future potentialities, and to take it in hand early.

It is primarily a disorder of the sebaceous glands. The function of these glands is to supply oil to the skin, to keep it soft and pliable. Seborrhea means "supply of sebum," and excessive oiliness is often the earliest stage of dandruff.

Curiously enough, this oily stage often is followed by excessive dryness, with scales and crusts. Modern authorities point to the danger of the scales and crusts affecting other parts of the body.

Hygienic care of the scalp involves four elements—cleanliness, lubrication, stimulation and disinfection [of combs, brushes, etc.]. The idea of dieting for dandruff isn't so amusing as one may think.

The importance of a proper regimen as a preventive of scalp disorders can't be too strongly emphasized. Nutrition, elimination, exercise, open air and sleep as factors in scalp care cannot be overlooked.

For local attention it is stimulation of the scalp you must count on to promote its healthy functioning, and stimulation is best obtained by brushing the hair as a daily ritual or twice daily.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

We hear that among the exciting ornaments for the high hair style there is a real butterfly, especially processed for durability and lasting loveliness of color. We haven't seen it yet. It's mounted on a metal comb and looks very airy-fairy nestled among the curls on the crown of well dressed heads.

And, of course, any little tufts of ostrich plume you may have around the house are going to be useful. Use different colors and have them mounted to make any kind of an ornament that suits your fancy, from a tiara to a completely giddy frou-frou to tuck behind one ear. Those high combs of long ago will be back, too, so dig them out of the supply of family keepsakes.

Next thing you'll be seeing in the way of bathroom accessories is "friction towels" from Sweden. They're very large and very rough and we doubt that women will care for them. Men will, though. They're to be used for a stiff, stirring after-bath rubdown—the kind of a flesh finish that makes a bath tonic.

More and more beauty shops are using a thin, quick drying perfume lotion after a shampoo to set the waves and give the hair a fragrance that lasts until the next washing. It comes in several scents made popular by one of the large perfume houses. At the moment it is used only in some beauty salons; it is not sold over the counter in the cosmetic sections. Next time you're shampooed ask your operator to try this age old, recently revived glamor trick.

To Keep Housewives Chic

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCK.

Beauty and fashion experts agree that no hour of the day should find a woman with her grooming below par. She should be dainty and pretty from dawn until dark, no matter how busy she is. This sounds like a task, but the right kind of household frocks is an immense help. We're doing our bit to help in this loveliness campaign by offering a pattern that is wealthy in smartness and, at the same time, wonderfully comfortable. Its square neckline may be stitched, bound with bias edging, or trimmed with ruffling or lace. The tiny sleeves receive the same treatment to correspond to the neckline. Three buttons on a scalloped closing are chic, too, and there is another button on the snug belted waistline. The simple seamed skirt fits the hips beautifully and has desirable flare at the hemline. If you like, two pockets may grace the skirt.

All types of cottons and wash silks make up beautifully. The frock is dressiest, of course, if it is of a dark material, preferably figured, and treated to lace or ruffling.

Style No. 2831 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material.

Avoid Making Child Fearful, Parents Urged

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A number of times, but not often enough, I've written about fostering the natural fearlessness of young children.

An interesting letter with the father the guilty person is the substance of today's article.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I want to tell you how much I like your column. I wish to tell you how much I impressed upon my husband that I always want my boy to help himself and try to understand that there is danger, but that he is big and can take care of himself. I do hope my husband will see my way.

"I have a boy of 17 months who is big and smart for his age. But always when my husband is at home and the child does little daring things his father shouts: 'Carl! Don't! You may fall!'

"And to me he says: 'He may fall and break his back, or slip and break a leg or something else equally dangerous.'

"I feel a child must learn to take care of himself and be independent at an early age. Am I wrong? Or do I have to lead my boy by the hand always? If so, at what age does one stop? Is it not so that he will always feel that his mother is there to aid him?

"I am a conscientious mother. I do watch him carefully, but feel that freedom is worth gold.

"I was daring myself as a child and never afraid. I also want my boy to be that way. When he falls I never rush to him, but come walking, talking quietly, and make him forget it. Even if he has a little scratch or a sore place he forgets it immediately. But if my husband is there he rubs him and then he wants sympathy."

This mother—careful, loving, but also wise—has the right idea. In this case and in a surprisingly large number of others it's father who is timid for his child.

Present Opera in Milwaukee Park Tomorrow

In the most ambitious musical performances of Milwaukee's summer season the Wisconsin Grand Opera company will present two outdoor performances of Verdi's opera, "Il Trovatore," this week. The initial presentation will be given in Washington park tomorrow evening. The opera will be repeated with the same cast in Humboldt park Thursday evening.

A strong and competent cast will sing the leading rôles. Richard Bonelli, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company, will appear as the count of Luna, a part well suited to his smooth vocal style and one he has sung many times in both New York and Chicago. Aroldo Lindi, dramatic tenor of the San Carlo and Cincinnati Zoo Opera companies, will sing Manfredo, a rôle he has sung probably more often than any one else on the contemporary American operatic stage.

The principal feminine singers are well known Chicago artists, Lilyan Sacks, soprano, and Olga Dane, contralto of the Chicago City Opera company. John Neher, bass of the same company, will sing as Ferrando.

The conductor and artistic director of the Wisconsin Grand Opera company is Lawrence Waite. At 32 he is said to be America's youngest director of an opera company of major pretensions. For many weeks he has been rehersing a youthful and personable chorus of more than seventy-five singers for this week's performances. An orchestra of forty players drawn from the Wisconsin Symphony orchestra will play the instrumental score.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Here is a hand in which South avoided two losing finesses in a way I never before have seen:

"North, dealer.
"North-South vulnerable.

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	2 diamonds	5 clubs	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

"South does not believe in dallying with this type of hand, so bid game at once. With eight sure tricks and partner's two and one-half, why not? North, who had considered a six club bid, welcomed the chance to redouble five, although why he should have been so enthusiastic is not clear to me.

"West leads the diamond ace. North puts his two ace-queen suits on the table and East chortles merrily, thus locating the kings for declarer. At trick two West continues with the diamond nine. [A shift would not have changed the final result.] East wins with the queen and now removes dummy's trump by returning the low club. South, winning, observes that although he cannot ruff his losing diamond, it will constitute a 'threat card' on East, forcing him to hold onto the high diamond and thus making it impossible for him to guard spades and hearts. Six more clubs are run off. Dummy now is down to the spade A-Q and heart A-Q. A finesse in either suit is almost sure to lose and the lead of the last trump, as an attempted squeeze, cannot succeed because East, back of the dummy, will duplicate its discard. But hold! Why finesse, or try to squeeze? East already had been squeezed. His four remaining cards cannot cover spade protection, heart protection, and the high diamond. Hence, he must have blanked either the spade or heart king and it certainly will fall when dummy's two aces are cashed. No need for guessing which finesse to take. The hand now is a laydown. Declarer leads a spade to the ace and East follows with the jack. But the heart ace now drops the blank king. The heart queen puts East under the gun. If he discards the spade king, dummy's spade queen will be high. If he discards the diamond king, declarer ruffs the spade king and cashes the diamond ten, for the fulfilling trick.

"I often have played an ace from A-Q to drop an obviously unguarded king, but never before have heard of a double A-Q drop.

"A. B.—Boston, Mass."

This is an interesting hand and, of course, it was well played. Actually, however, there was nothing strange or unusual about the end position. What happened was that the squeeze on East took place when declarer cashed his next-to-last trump. It is interesting to note that if West had been second-sighted, and had made the unorthodox lead of a low diamond, thus preserving the ace, the contract would have been defeated. After cashing two diamond tricks and shifting to a club, East could have held onto his spade and heart protection while West guarded the diamond suit. This, however, is in no sense a criticism. West's lead was perfectly correct and conventional. The fact that breaking the rule would have succeeded in this case is not a sound argument in its favor.

LEADER OF LABOR RACKET SOUGHT IN DUNGAN DEATH

Refusal to Pay Off Blamed for Assassination.

The leader of a south side gang which, since repeal, has turned from beer to labor muscling is being sought as the man behind the assassination of James G. Dungan. Dungan, boss of the painters' union in Chicago, was shot down last Monday evening in front of his home at 3116 Lowe avenue. His was the eighth of nine gang murders in the last two months.

Dungan was believed to have come to terms with the gang shortly after the killing of Michael [Bubs] Quinlan in a café at 6325 Cottage Grove avenue on July 18, 1934. Police who have been investigating the rôle of known gangs in the labor field believe that Dungan paid tribute from 1934 until about last Christmas, when for some reason he stopped.

Fear of Attack Told.

Dungan went at that time to the Deering street police and to Capt. John Stege, who supervises the south and southwest sections of the city. He asked for protection. He said that if anything should happen to him he felt sure it would occur at his home and he asked that squads be assigned to patrol the neighborhood. This was done, but of late Dungan had been spending evenings on his farm and on the night he was killed the police supposed he was out of town, as usual.

The events behind the theory that Dungan had been purchasing his safety until last Christmas are these:

The killing of Quinlan, who was one of the first of the old-time gangsters to attempt to muscle in on labor union, always has been laid at the door of Roy Shields, a former business agent of a painters' local. Shields long was known as a gunman. Some dozen shootings were marked up by the police against him, but on none of them were they able to convict him.

Quinlan Shot Dead.

Quinlan had tried to seize control of the painters' union after repeal. He and two companions were sitting in the café when Shields and Roy Thompson, also a painters' union official, walked in. There was a quarrel and Shields was heard to say: "If there's going to be any shooting, I'll do it." He pulled a gun. In the ensuing hubbub, Quinlan was shot dead.

Of the two men with Quinlan, police could find only one. He was Tom McLaughlin, a saloonkeeper. He said he did not see the shooting, that he was looking the other way. Nevertheless, almost a month to a day, Thompson, Shields' companion, was machine gunned in front of his home at 8241 Dorchester avenue.

About a month after that a gang in an automobile fired on Dungan, who escaped death by dodging into the Deering street station.

Attacks on Dungan Cease.

But there were no more attacks on Dungan. Mysteriously enough he was left unmolested, although the gang laid a trap for Shields by killing his brother, Robert, a little over a year ago. They hoped that Shields would show up at the funeral. But Shields, who is hiding out in Wisconsin in a hilltop tower home, from which he can see all who approach for miles, stayed there.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, the attorney who has represented Dungan and his union on several occasions, said yesterday he did not believe that Dungan had been paying off. Dungan was the sort, the attorney said, who would rather fight than pay tribute.

Dungan, however, told his associates repeatedly since last Christmas that he was living on borrowed time. He had been free of fear from 1934 until that time.

Mike Massina still was being sought yesterday for questioning in the latest gang execution, that of Joseph La Porte. La Porte, who was 24 years old and lived at 1220 Polk street, was stood against a garage wall Friday night and shot five times in the head and face. He was a police informer who had helped put several of Massina's 42 gang pals in prison and who was believed to have caused Massina trouble with the authorities on at least two occasions.

3 BLIND PUPILS GET DOG GUIDES WITH AID OF C.Y.O.

Three Chicago high school boys, all blind, will return here today to take up fuller lives. With them will be their new dog guides, obtained at "The Master's Eye" institute in Minneapolis, Minn.

Since they were little the boys have been escorted to and from school by relatives. When the fall school term opens they will find their own way to their classrooms at Marshall High school with the aid of the dogs.

The boys are William Roy, 15 years old, 5758 South Hermitage avenue; David Nagle, 16, of 719 North Lawndale avenue, and Robert Scanlon, 17, of 6430 South Talman avenue. Last June they were sent to receive training at "The Master's Eye" institute by the Catholic Youth organization.

LAW SIFTS THIRD OF DUST FROM AIR CITY BREATHES

Survey Tells Success of Smoke Ordinance.

Enforcement of Chicago's new smoke ordinance reduced the dust fall in the city sharply during the first seven months of 1938. The monthly average up to Aug. 1 was 69.9 tons per square mile, compared with 102.4 tons per square mile during the same period in 1937.

This means that Chicagoans are breathing air containing about one-third less dust than they did last year.

Frank A. Chambers, superintendent of the department of smoke inspection and abatement, yesterday issued figures on the dust fall based on a city wide survey. The report was prepared by the department's combustion engineers to show the results of the law that took effect last Jan. 1.

Annual Inspection Provided.

This law provides for an annual inspection of heating and power units in all buildings except single and double family dwellings. The department can revoke the operating permit wherever the owner refuses to abate smoke. And there is a $25 daily fine for operating without a permit.

The dust survey was made from twenty-four stations located on the roofs of schools or telephone company exchanges. A one gallon glass jar filled with water or, in the winter, anti-freeze solution is placed at each station for a month. Then all the jars are collected and the liquid analyzed. This shows the total amount of dust which fell on an area the size of the jar's opening. The amount of dust which fell on the city's 200 square miles is then calculated.

Total Fall 97,880 Tons.

The total dust fall in the first seven months of this year was 97,880 tons, which would fill about 2,450 gondola freight cars. Last year the total fall was 143,340 tons or enough to fill 3,450 freight cars, Chambers said.

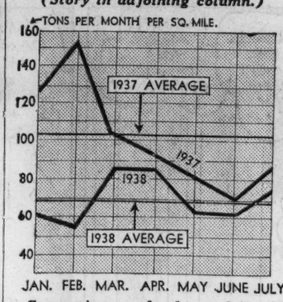
Improvement in the fuel burning plants to meet the city's requirements is shown in the reduction of the amount of soot which fell this year as compared to last. Monthly figures showing the tons of soot which fell per square mile are as follows:

Month—	1937.	1938.
January	25	17
February	26	15
March	17	21
April	20	22
May	16	15
June	14	14
July	21	13

The amount of soot in the dust fall is known as the "smoke index." It indicates incomplete or faulty combustion in heating or power plants, Chambers said. This is the same as carbon in a gasoline engine.

Dust Fall Reduced

(Story in adjoining column.)



Comparison of dust fall by months in Chicago during the first seven months of 1937 and 1938. Since the new smoke ordinance became effective on the first of this year, the average fall per square mile a month has been reduced from 102.4 tons to 69.9 tons.

A HELPING HAND TAKES $4,498 FROM A TRUSTING SOUL

E. E. Russell.

A daring young man who picks pockets for a living probably was hailing himself yesterday as a master at his trade. For, on Saturday, he picked a pocket in the Northern Trust company building.

The victim was E. E. Russell, 80 years old, a retired business man of 736 Pine avenue. He was entering the elevator on the second floor with $4,498 in his inside coat pocket. He had just received it from the paying teller. The young man graciously helped him in by grasping his right arm and standing close to him. At the main floor the young man hurriedly left.

When Russell reached the basement vaults, he felt for his money. It was gone. He summoned guards, then left for his home. He did not notify police of the theft until yesterday after friends told him Lieut. Edward Kelly of the pickpocket detail might be able to apprehend the thief.

Found Dead in Gas Filled Garage at Evanston Home

William E. Brown went to the garage long before dawn yesterday at his home, 815 Gaffield place, Evanston. His wife and son were preparing for the vacation trip that was to begin at breakfast time. Brown said he wanted to make some adjustments on the car. When he failed to return, Mrs. Brown investigated and found him dead of motor exhaust fumes. Brown, a laundry owner, was 54 years old.

ALL-STARS SHARPEN PASS ATTACK IN BRISK DRILL

FIRST CONTACT WORK IS LISTED FOR WEDNESDAY

Collegians Anxious to Get at Baugh.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

A brisk morning drill on forward pass plays and kicking, and continued rehersal of signals yesterday kept the All-American football players progressing steadily toward their goal of the battle with the Washington Redskins on the night of Aug. 31 in Soldiers' field.

In the afternoon nearly all the members of the All-Star squad visited Comiskey park where they were the guests of the White Sox at the game with Cleveland.

General preliminary conditioning work will continue with two workouts today and tomorrow. Wednesday, however, Head Coach Bo McMillin and his assistants expect to send the boys through their first scrimmage. The present plan also calls for a second and longer scrimmage under approximate game conditions next Saturday.

Scrimmage Will Determine Value.

The coaches agree that scrimmage is the only method to determine the value of the players and although there is the ever present danger of injury, the size of the squad of sixty-six men is protection against weakening the team that will face the Redskins.

Probably no All-Star team scrimmaged more or worked harder than the 1936 group. This attention paid dividends in the 7 to 7 tie with the Detroit Lions. Last year, while the coaches stressed pass defense as was natural in view of Arnie Herber's passing ability, and also concentrated on a passing attack to utilize Sammy Baugh's exceptional arm, there were plenty of smashing tackles and teeth jarring blocks in practice. The 1938 All-Americans will be sent through the mill before the coaches determine the rating of the men.

This squad is out to match the 6 to 0 victory scored last year by the All-Stars. That victory tied the charity games series. In 1934 the Bears and the All-Stars played a scoreless tie. The Bears, again representing the National league in 1935, defeated the All-Stars, 5 to 0, scoring on a field goal by Jack Manders and a safety in the second half. After the 1936 tie, last year's victory evened the standing.

Baugh Commands Respect.

Strangely enough it is Sammy Baugh, hero of last year's victory by his touchdown pass to Gaynell Tinsley in the first quarter, whom the All-Americans must first consider in mapping their defensive plans. Already the players are discussing Baugh, perhaps with more respect than last year's group of collegians discussed Herber of Green Bay.

Baugh's rise to stardom in his first year in the professional league as well as his spectacular passing in Dyche stadium during the 1937 practice sessions provides the answer. Many of these All-Americans have seen Baugh play. Most of the boys from the midwest saw last year's All-Star game and the game in December between Washington and the Bears for the professional title.

The easterners saw Sammy's debut in New York when the Redskins overwhelmed the Giants, 49 to 14. So Baugh is well known.

Sees Every All-Star Game.

Jim McDonald, co-captain of Ohio State university last fall with Ralph Wolf, center, who also is a member of the All-Americans, has seen every All-Star game. In addition to watching Baugh defeat Green Bay by his pass, he also watched Baugh pass the Redskins to victory over the Bears in December.

"It has been my ambition since 1934 to play in THE TRIBUNE'S All-Star game," McDonald said yesterday, "and since last fall I also have wanted to play against Baugh.

"Sammy is the greatest forward passer I ever watched. I respect him and so do the other fellows, but I

INDIANS DEFEAT STRATTON AND WHITE SOX, 6-4

Averill and Keltner Hit Home Runs.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Monty Stratton, seeking to gain his thirteenth pitching victory and at the same time dodge his season's sixth defeat, had to accept the latter yesterday because of his flirtation with the home run ball. He tossed up a couple of these dangerous items and three runs resulting therefrom boosted Cleveland's Indians to a 6 to 4 triumph in the closing act of the White Sox's home stay, during which they won nine and lost fourteen times.

Stratton's first contact with the deadly home run ball occurred in the second inning when Ken Keltner slapped it into the seats with an Indian on base. By subsequently getting after old Earl Whitehill, the lefty, the Sox erased the effect of this drive, climbing into a tie. They had to do some more climbing for another tie in the seventh after the Indians again had taken the lead. But the Sox had no comeback after the eighth, when Earl Averill slashed a drive into the pavilion and another run followed on a single by Hal Trosky, a wild pitch, and a single by Odell Hale.

Earl Still Can Pitch.

Although Whitehill is an elderly fellow hardly entitled to perform any pitching miracles at this late stage, he managed his affairs with skill, even though he was absent at the finish. He kept the Sox in such a feeble state that they produced only three hits in four innings but two of these happened to be paired, hence a run. In the fifth they gave him another slight shaking up to register two runs needed for a tie. Then he was yanked hurriedly in the seventh but from this point Indian pitchers were changed so rapidly the Sox were dizzy keeping count of the alterations and in their state of dizziness they neglected to hit.

Monty Fans Two.

Stratton pitched a couple of strikeouts and yielded only a single by Campbell in the first inning, but in doing so created a false impression of his strength. Something happened to him in the next inning. With one out, Trosky singled to right center and a moment later sprinted around

FERRELL BOBS UP WITH YANKS, WHO HARDLY NEED HIM

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, released by Washington's fourth place Senators two days ago, came up with the New York Yankees—and what looks like a world series shot—today.

The temperamental right hander, veteran of twelve years in the big time with Cleveland, Boston and Washington, was signed by the world champions to make up for the absence of Joe Vance. Vance, recently brought up from Kansas City, underwent an appendectomy last night and he apparently is through for the season.

Cash Benefits, Probably.

In hooking up with the Yanks, Ferrell is like the fellow who fell into a barrel of tar and came up with a diamond necklace. The New Yorkers are far in front in the pennant race, and are favored to get into their third straight world series, with its resultant cash benefits.

The Yankees' manager, Joe McCarthy, will play the psychology angle in giving Ferrell his debut with Gehrig and company. All signs point to Wes making his first start against Washington in the series there beginning Tuesday.

Signing a Surprise.

Ferrell's acceptance by the Yankees comes as a surprise second only to his release by Washington Friday, since he had made overtures to several National league clubs. Although not so consistent as in some of his past years, the 30 year old "nuthin' ball" artist had won thirteen and lost eight—a record not to be sneezed at. It was believed the high salary he was drawing had something to do with the Senators letting him go.

In recent weeks, the Yankees pitching has been getting along fine. Then, too, McCarthy never was one to look for the temperamental type of performer. That was one of the reasons he traded Johnny Allen to Cleveland.

Milton Ruehl, Milwaukee, Wins Clay Court Tourney

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Milton Ruehl of Milwaukee today won the northwest clay courts tennis championship by beating Don Leavens, also of Milwaukee, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

Laffoon's 280 Wins $10,000 Golf Tourney

Cleveland, O., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Ky Laffoon of Chicago was steady under pressure today and snatched the $3,000 first prize in the $10,000 Cleveland open golf meet from Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who went around the course four under par to take an early lead.

Coming in, needing a one under par 70 to beat Sam, Laffoon picked up birdies on the fourteenth and fifteenth holes. With the pressure off on the eighteenth, he missed a short putt to take a five. His 70 gave him a total of 280. Snead had left the eighteenth only a few minutes before. His 67 tied the course record and permitted him to slip ahead of Bill Burke of Cleveland by one stroke to claim second place money of $1,500 with 281.

Burke Gets 282.

Burke, who tied with Ky Laffoon at 210 yesterday, had bad luck with his putts all day and finished with 72 for 282. Laffoon had a 71 yesterday and his cards for the first two days were 70 and 69.

Burke took $800 for his four days' operations. Five strokes behind Laf-

BY FRENCH LANE.

George M. Fritz, whose daily job it is to administer to tired and run down automobiles, decided on Saturday that his bank roll could stand a little repair work, too, so out of his blue denims he jumped and into his Sunday palm beach. He was off to the Washington Park races.

George had heard about the amateur handicappers' contest and it looked very soft to him. He admits he is not a deep student of the business but he did fortify himself Saturday with the selections of every professional handicapper.

Marks Program, and How!

Then, making sure that he had walked under no ladders, had broken no mirrors, and had allowed no black cats to cross his path, he sat down to mark his program.

He picked Calculator to win the first race. Calculator did. He picked Bobbin to win the second. Bobbin did. Then, in masterful fashion, he followed with four more winners in unbroken line. They were Glasby, at 26 to 1; Cherovan, at 7 to 1; Smart Trick, at 21 to 1, and Mar Le, at 10 to 1.

George was exultant at this point of the game. His pick in the seventh race was honest old Butter Beans. He could imagine no more reliable color bearer, but Butter Beans failed him.

George was considerably crestfallen, but not as much as he would have been on a week day, when the prize goes only to the holder of a perfect score—that of seven straight winners.

A Check for $5,000.

There might still be other amateur handicappers dumber than he, George thought. There were. To be exact, there were 41,823 of them. George alone had picked six of seven. So he was notified yesterday afternoon by Washington Park Jocky club officials that if he will come out to the track today he will get his reward—a check for $5,000.

George lives at 3910 North Mozart street. His automobile repair shop is at 3522 North Clark street. Racing is his favorite sport, but his auto shop keeps him pretty busy, he says, and this was his third trip to the tracks this year. He made only one set of selections.

"What are you going to do with the money?" George was asked.

"First I'm going to wrap a brick in the check and chase the sherif away from my back door," was his answer. George is married, but he has no children.

I Only Know.

I cannot say whence she had come that night,
I only knew she carried a young life,
And so I shared my shelter though she might
Have been an erring mother, not a wife;
She seemed so helpless when she left my door
I gave her the few coins that I possessed,
The while a benison she did outpour,
Clasping the sleeping infant to her breast.

Sometimes I think her blessing may have steeled
My will against a wrong I meant to do,
And fortified my heart lest I should yield
To what my conscience told me was untrue;
Sinner perhaps the woman may have been
And yet I know she wrested me from sin.

BROWN CHECKS CHICAGO'S NINTH INNING RALLY

Bauers Is Master Until Finish.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 14.—Russ Bauers, former Chicago semi-pro and recently the Pirates' hottest pitcher, and Fireman Mace Brown this afternoon put a brusque end to the victorious batting carnival the Cubs had been enjoying here for two days. Bauers' contribution to a 2 to 0 Pittsburgh conquest today in the final game of the Cubs' long road trip, was a five-single masterpiece up until the time he got nervous with two on in the ninth and retired in favor of Brown. Brown got the side out after the Cubs had loaded the bases with none out.

Bauers for eight innings apparently hadn't heard that the Cubs made 33 hits for 55 bases here Friday and yesterday. When the Cubs did bob up with something that resembled a threat prior to the ninth he made a batsman hit into the dirt for a double play. There were five infield double killings in the contest including one which ended the game.

Only Two Cub Threats.

The Cubs developed only two threats, one in the second and one in the startling ninth. With one out in the second, Reynolds singled for the first hit off Bauers and Hartnett walked. Demaree's grounder then got away from Vaughan, the only error of the game, loading the bases. Jurges then hit into the second Young to Vaughan to Suhr double play.

Johnny Rizzo nicked Charley Root for a homer at the start of the second. Then there were two outs after which Young tripled off the scoreboard. The triple was wasted when Jurges threw out Bauers.

Collins led off the fourth with a single. Then came a third Young to Vaughan to Suhr double play, after which Reynolds fanned.

The next Cub hit and the fourth Pirate double play came in the seventh. Reynolds again pushed off with a single, Hartnett sent a 430 foot fly to Lloyd Waner and Demaree hit into a double play, Vaughan to Young to Suhr.

Young's Double Leads to Run.

In their half of the seventh the Pirates added their second run. Young doubled, Bauers fanned, and Handley flied to Galan, who went against the fence for the catch. Lloyd Waner then made the third of his three hits, a single which scored Young.

The Cubs were looking for their fifth hit as the ninth opened. It appeared that Bauers was set to breeze to an easy finish. Herman opened the ninth with a single to left. Collins, for the second successive time, was hit by a pitched ball. Manager Traynor rushed out to the diamond, halted play and called in his spectacular reliever, Brown. Augie Galan promptly lined a single to right, filling the bases with none out. Reynolds, with a record of two singles in the game and sizzling recently on the offense, was up. A single this time would tie the score. A double would put the Cubs ahead. Carl got neither. He took a healthy swing, but the ball went high in the air and came down in Lee Handley's glove.

Vaughan Plays for Hartnett.

Manager Hartnett, who has been doing a lot of socking recently, had not connected. It seemed the big gent was due. Apparently few had noticed that Arky Vaughan foxily was playing out of normal position for the Cub skipper. When Gabby smashed one toward left center, a concerted sob went up from the

REDSKINS THINK ROOKIE BACK IS A SECOND BAUGH

Lad Named Turkey Thrills Fans with Passes.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ballston, Va., Aug. 14.—All of Washington that could be accommodated in the stands of Lu Blue's semi-pro ball park, up the pike a piece from Ballston's bustling little business district, swept across the Potomac today to collect Redskin autographs and check on the squad's preparation for the Chicago All-Star Football game Aug. 31.

Only the Green Bay loyalists exceed Washington fans in partisanship in the National league. And Sunday is a day set aside to give a cheer for and cast a critical eye over the young men who will be asked to uphold the prestige of professional football in the annual test against the finest collegiate talent in America. Several hundred made the most of the opportunity.

They Stay to the Finish.

Their impressions were favorable, their enthusiasm boundless. Even one of the hottest days of the year, with not a cloud to intercept a blazing sun or a breeze to soothe scorched necks, could drive them from their perches until the end of the three hour afternoon drill, which replaced the shorter morning and afternoon sessions held on week days.

The turnout added impetus to the ruckus stirred up by Clark Griffith, the venerable gentleman who owns the Washington Senators. Griffith informed newspapers last week that it was most annoying to read All-Star and Redskin publicity in the middle of the baseball race.

Griff Threatens Lockout.

Griffith threatens to lock the Redskins out of Griffith stadium next season unless the Washington press eliminates football material from its sports pages until after the world series.

Sammy Baugh, of course, was the center of attraction in today's drill, the last intense workout the squad will have before the first scrimmage tomorrow afternoon. Tomorrow morning's session will be devoted to light exercise and more picture taking at the request of sports editors who have difficulty making out Griffith's notes. But Baugh was forced to share the spotlight with Dick Turkey, a rookie full back from Manhattan who blossomed forth for the first time as a passer.

Turkey had been overlooked in previous aerial drills. Previously all passing has been done by Baugh, Riley Smith, veteran Redskin quarter back, and the two left handed rookies, Leroy Campbell, the Western Maryland half back, and Jim Abbott, a full back from Elon college. Today Turkey wound up the drill with a demonstration of accuracy that rivaled that of Baugh, completing long and short ones with the same easy snap motion which characterizes the celebrated Texan's famous throws.

He Should Be Valuable.

Discovery of Turkey's unheralded ability greatly enhances Washington's chances of victory. It is no secret that the Redskins' offensive is chiefly a barrage of passes thrown from intricate formations to fast, deceptive ends.

George Karamatic's kicking in the last three drills also has been a source of encouragement to Coach Ray Flaherty. Karamatic, a rookie from Gonzaga, has out-kicked Baugh and Riley Smith, the punters on whom Flaherty depended last year.

Ed Kawal, veteran National league center who came to the Redskins in a trade for Center Frank Bausch a year ago, was sent home to Cicero, Ill., today for refusal to sign his contract. Kawal, a former Illinois star starting his fifth year in professional football, worked out with the squad Friday and Saturday. When he failed to come to terms last night, Coach Ray Flaherty ordered him out of camp. Efforts will be made to trade him.

The Chicago Cardinals, Bears, and Green Bay Packers already have refused to accept him in deals.

All-Americans Bear Down on Pass Attack

want to match myself against him to find out just how good he is. The boys all feel that way. Baugh may give our defense a terrible licking but we won't believe it until he does.

Al-Star Backs Have Speed.

"Our backs have speed and that's essential in covering receivers. And the big boys in the line look like they know how to break through and chase Sammy when he drops back to pass. No matter what happens, the game Aug. 31 is going to be the greatest thrill in my football career."

Maurice Carroll, Catholic university half back, is the first of the All-Stars forced to drop out of the conditioning drills by injury. The red head pulled a muscle in his leg. The injury is not serious, but he was cot in uniform yesterday morning. Neither was Pete Smith, University of Oklahoma end, from Muskogee, Okla.

An impacted wisdom tooth gave Smith a sleepless Saturday night and yesterday morning Rut Walter, who is in charge of the All-Star quarters, escorted the Oklahoman to a dentist, who pulled the tooth.

In the four drills to date the coaches have worked three quartets of backs together consistently. Cecil Isbell, Purdue; Corby Davis, Indiana; Jim McDonald, Ohio State, and Andy Uram, Minnesota, have formed one set. Another set is Andy Puplis, Notre Dame; Gary Famiglietti, Boston university; Frank Filchock, Indiana, and Rudy Gmitro, Minnesota. A third group drilling together is composed of Frank Patrick, Pittsburgh; Elmore [Honey] Hackney, Duke; Jack Robbins, Arkansas, and Vic Spadaccini, Minnesota.

Others Will Be Grouped.

Naturally there is nothing final about these selections, but each has been put together to have a passer and runner—Isbell, Filchock, and Robbins—and to have blocking kicking, and line smashing strength. There are many others who will be grouped, or who will replace men in these backfields. The principal difficulty for the coaches now is to get the proper combinations for the line to go with the abundance of back field talent.

Frank Patrick, from East Chicago, Ind., whose brother Mickey, boxing coach at the Inland Steel company in Indiana Harbor visited him yesterday, probably holds the record of having played against more of the All-Americans than any other boy on the squad. While competing three years for Pittsburgh, Frank played against Nebraska, University of Washington in the 1937 Rose Bowl game; Duke university; Fordham, Notre Dame, and Ohio State.

Paramount films took moving pictures of the workout yesterday for national distribution. Among the coaches of professional teams who were camp visitors were Earl [Dutch] Clark of Detroit; George Halas of the Bears; Curley Lambeau of Green Bay, and Milan Creighton of the Cardinals who was accompanied by the club owner, Charley Bidwill.

U. S. Defeats Germans in Track, 122-92

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The United States track team easily won a two day meet in the Olympic stadium against Germany, 122 points to 92. Winning eight first places and five seconds today, the Americans increased their lead of the first day to a comfortable margin, showing marked superiority in the track events.

Today's events were marred by a heavy downpour. The rain and Germany's failure to stay even with the invaders in the first day's events failed to dampen the ardor of German sports fans, however, and there were 80,000 in the stadium today. Sixty thousand saw yesterday's events. As on the first day, the Americans were given hearty cheers whenever they performed well.

German Stars Fail.

Of the three German stars who achieved first or second places in the 1936 Olympics, only one—Gerhart Stoeck, the javelin thrower—won a first place today. Hans Woellke had to be content with a second in the shot put, while Lutz Long wound up third in the broad jump. Most drama in today's meeting came in the 5,000 meter race, where Greg Rice, Notre Dame star, forged ahead in the last lap, beating the Germans, Max Syring and Otto Eitel.

The poor showing of the Germans, Julius Kaindl and Wilhelm Hein, in the 3,000 meter steeplechase was one of the surprises of the meet. Kaindl fell on the first jump and he never pressed the winner, Forest Efaw of Oklahoma A. and M., thereafter. Hein began limping after 700 meters but he struggled home fourth.

The keenest disappointment for the German crowd, however, came in the 400 meters when Rudolph Harbig, favored to win, finished second behind Ray Malott, former Stanford university runner, who was timed in 46.9.

Ryan Wins Shot Put.

The parade of American firsts in the 200 meter dash, the 400 meter hurdles and the 1,600 meter relay provided no surprises. In the shot put, Francis Ryan of Columbia university whipped Woellke, the Olympic champion, with a heave of 51 feet 10 27-32 inches.

However good Americans may be as athletes, they're certainly poor marchers. Today's events were preceded by a solemn march into the stadium with the athletes' respective national flags flying at the head of each team. The tall, heavy set Irving Folwartshny of Rhode Island carried the American flag and the men who followed him marched leisurely, even sloppily, in sharp contrast to the Germans, whose military precision thrilled the audience.

CUNNINGHAM WINS

Glenn Cunningham won the mile run in the track meet sponsored by the Central A. A. U. as part of Irish day activities yesterday in Riverview park. His time was 4 minutes and 13 seconds.

Ed Reidy of Ogden park, with a 30 yard handicap, finished second, and Billy Morey of Ogden park, with a 25 yard handicap, third.

Walter Bergman, Ogden park, won the Central A. A. U. championship 10 mile run in 59:50.2. Pat Faherty, also of Ogden park, and Willie Dreyer of Barrington, Ill., were second and third, respectively. Summaries:

REDS, CARDS SPLIT.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 14.—(AP)—The Reds won the first game from the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 4, today as Paul Derringer scored his fifteenth victory, but they lost the second game, 8 to 1. Harry Craft hit a homer with one on base in the sixth to decide the first game. Clyde Shoun limited the Reds to six hits in the second game.

Cubs Come Home Today; Bryant Faces Cardinals

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 14.—[Special.]—Clay Bryant, who won three games for the Cubs on the trip ending today, will go after his 12th victory in tomorrow's game with the St. Louis Cardinals in Wrigley field, Chicago. There will be a double-header Tuesday between the Cubs and Frankie Frisch's musical marvels.

Larry French not only couldn't accept his assignment to pitch against the Pirates in the final here today, but stayed in bed until train time. The nature of his stomach illness is such that he expects to be back in action within a few days.

The Cubs, who have been away from home since the evening of July 24, will arrive at the Union station at 7:40 o'clock tomorrow morning.

crowd of 24,193. The sob ended when realization came that Vaughan was playing far back and to the left of his usual post, anticipating just such an emergency. Vaughan whizzed the ball to Young to force Galan by an eyelash and Pep relayed to Suhr for double play No. 5 and the end of the steaming encounter.

And thus the Cubs cleared up road business and prepared to head for home with a record of nine victories and nine defeats on the trip. They are 6½ games out of first place, a game worse off than they were when they left home.

On the trip the Cubs split two games with the Brooklyn Dodgers, dropped three out of four to the tail end Phillies, took two out of three from the Giants, lost two out of three to the Bees and took two out of three from the Reds and the Pirates.

From the foregoing it may be observed they tied one and lost two series with three second division teams while they took all three series with the other first division teams.

NAME MEL OTT MOST POPULAR THIRD BASEMAN

Melvin T. Ott of the New York Giants has been elected third baseman on the mythical team of most popular baseball players being chosen in a poll conducted by a cereal company. Ott placed just a few percentage points ahead of Stanley Hack, the Chicago Cubs' third baseman.

The race between the National leaguers furnished judges of the poll with their closest tabulation so far in the balloting, which in the last three weeks brought out Lou Gehrig of the Yankees as first baseman and Charley Gehringer Detroit Tiger, at second.

IT'S THE DRINKS DRIVERS DON'T FEEL THAT HARM

2 Juleps and a Motorist's Ability Drops 30%.

BY HAL FOUST.

The fellow who says he can drive just as well after a couple of cocktails or highballs doesn't know what he's talking about. Doctors know better. And yesterday, George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, arranged a convincing and realistic demonstration.

Trafic court judges meet many motorists who carry their liquor well. Their usual testimony is something like this: "I'll admit, judge, that I had a couple of drinks. But I certainly wasn't drunk." In most such cases the testimony is true.

Toll of "Few Drinks" Heavy.

Statistics are lacking on how many accidents, injuries, and deaths are due to one or two drinks that didn't intoxicate. Only a small portion of such accidents are actually recorded as due to alcohol. However, the Northwestern university trafic safety institute recently found liquor on the breaths of 75 per cent of the drivers tested in Evanston between midnight and 2 a. m. on a Sunday.

For the motor club test, Bruce Wells and Scott Tiedman, commercial artists at 66 East South Water street, volunteered as guinea pigs. Both are family men, in their forties, each with more than a quarter of a century of driving experience.

At 10 a. m. both men took tests of their vision, their nervous reactions, their hand-eye coördination, and their judgment of distances and of speeds. Barton rated both of them as motorists of better than average ability, a rating coinciding with their driving records.

Drink Two Mint Juleps.

At 11:30 o'clock the men returned to the laboratory after sipping a couple of mint juleps. Neither showed any trace of intoxication. Wells then sat at the wheel of a dummy automobile. Before him was a shifting highway scene. It called for him to operate brakes, accelerator, clutch, and steering wheel to keep a toy car on a toy road with curves, railroad crossings, and stop and go lights.

Completely confident, he finished this part of the test in 310 seconds. It had taken him 444 seconds on the sober trial. He had driven faster as a result of the drinks. And his grade for accuracy in steering and in judging speeds and distances was only 69 per cent of what it was without the drinks.

Then Tiedman took the wheel. He too sailed through the test at a merry clip, and with his accuracy only 61 per cent of what it was without the liquor.

Driving Ability Drops Sharply.

Other tests on other equipment showed similar results. The engineer computed that Wells with two drinks had 88.3 per cent of his sober driving ability. Tiedman retained only 69.2 per cent of his normal ability.

"A driver," Barton said, "needs 100 per cent of his capabilities to operate a car safely in modern trafic."

The apparatus used in exposing the handicaps imposed by drinks was developed by universities, motor clubs, psychologists, and optometrists to detect physical deficiencies of individuals. As an example of the value of such examinations, a person who learns that his vision is impaired or that he is slow in shifting his foot from accelerator to brake pedal can thereafter drive accordingly.

For the somewhat general test, a dummy auto has a steering wheel, clutch, brake, horn, transmission lever and accelerator. On a miniature stage before the driver, a roadway painted on a lether belt rolls forward.

Simulates Driving Conditions.

Accelerator, brake, clutch, and transmission control the speed of this belt. The steering wheel guides a miniature car over the roadway. It is a simulation of actual driving conditions with accuracy and time scored automatically by electrical recording devices.

Another piece of laboratory equipment measures ability to judge distances. Inside a box about six feet long are four toy cars on endless chains. Their tracks are parallel. At one end of the box is a pair of binoculars reversed so that in peering through the lenses it appears that four cars are advancing about a block and a half ahead. The person being tested tries to line them up four abreast by moving the cars forward or backward. If the cars are far apart when they appear to the subject to be close together, he lacks ability to perceive depth, that is, to judge distances.

The emotional excitability of a driver is metered electrically by measuring the moisture that appears on his skin when he is startled. The subject is startled by unexpected alarms of bells, horns and buzzers. In each of his hands is an electrode completing a circuit of an imperceptibly small current through his arms. With the blast of a horn, the skin moistens [the proverbial cold sweat] permitting more electricity to pass through his arms.

A brake operation test times the speed with which a motorist can release the accelerator and slam on his brakes in an emergency.

In a coördination test, the motorist inserts a brass pencil into small holes of graduated size in rhythm to the ticking of a metronome. Starting at the larger holes and working toward the smaller, he sees how far he can go without the stylus touching the side of a hole. When it touches, an electric circuit causes a buzzer to sound.

Other apparatus detects or measures color blindness, visual acuity, range of vision, strength of grip, physical activity, blood pressure, and ability to judge speed.

QUEEN MARY SETS TWO-WAY RECORD ACROSS ATLANTIC

Captures Blue Ribbon from France's Normandie.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The giant liner Queen Mary captured the Atlantic blue ribbon from the French liner Normandie today when she added the fastest eastward ocean crossing to her newly established westbound record.

The Queen Mary.

Cunard White Star officials announced the Queen Mary steamed past Bishop's rock, Scilly Islands, at 1:42 p. m. (8:42 a. m. Chicago time), completing the 2,938 miles from Ambrose light at New York in 3 days 20 hours and 42 minutes, at an averaged speed of 31.69 knots.

Former Record Only Year Old.

On its westward crossing the big liner had bettered by one hour and fourteen minutes the westward record formerly held by the Normandie. Going westward the Queen Mary passed Ambrose light at 1:32 a. m. on Aug. 9, completing the trip in 3 days 21 hours and 48 minutes, averaging 30.99 knots.

On Aug. 8, 1937, the Normandie set the eastward crossing record of 3 days 22 hours and 7 minutes with an average speed of 31.30 knots. This was after the Normandie had set a westward crossing record of 3 days 23 hours and 2 minutes.

At Cherbourg, France one officer of the Queen Mary told reporters: "You have the Normandie—this is the lion's turn to roar."

Secret Change Made.

It was understood in shipping circles that improvements were made secretly on the Queen Mary when she was in dock the week before her western voyage. The nature of the changes was not disclosed.

Engineers aboard watched closely every phase of the ocean dash. This was with a view to making final decisions on machinery to be installed in the Queen Elizabeth, sister ship of the Queen Mary, which is being built on the river Clyde.

LANDON RONALD, FAMED BRITISH MUSICIAN, DIES

LONDON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Sir Landon Ronald, one of England's most celebrated musicians, died today after a long illness. He was 65 years old.

Sir Landon Ronald.

Sir Landon conducted grand opera at Covent Garden when he was only 21 and was knighted by King George V. for his services to British music in 1922. He gained prominence as accompanist to Mme. Nellie Melba, the Australian prima donna, with whom he went to the United States as conductor in 1894.

Sir Landon was a pianist, composer, conductor, critic, and teacher of music and wrote about 300 songs. He had been principal of the Guildhall School of Music in London from 1910 until illness forced him to retire last year.

WINS LOG BIRLING CHAMPIONSHIP IN JUST 32 SECONDS

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Sandy haired Jimmy Herron, slim and hard bitten boom man of Kelso, Wash., became the world's champion log birler late today when he defeated Harley Foster, Aberdeen, Wash., logger, for two falls in a total of 32 seconds.

For the last three days Herron and Foster rolled their way through the long list of thirty-two competitors. With James Running of Eau Claire, Wis., and Bob Craig of Kelso, Wash., they were left to battle for the title today.

Running, 17 years old and speedy, lost out in a hard match with Foster earlier in the day. Craig was beaten in a preliminary bout with Herron.

CALL STRIKE VOTE FOR TONIGHT ON NORTH SHORE LINE

Union employés of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad will take a strike vote in Waukegan at midnight tonight. The issue is whether they will accept a 15 per cent wage cut, effective tomorrow.

Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver for the road, notified the union of the proposed cut on July 14. On Saturday the federal court approved the reduction. Reduced income makes the slash necessary if operations are to continue, Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman reported.

Yesterday union officials met and said they thought employés will favor a strike to enforce their demand that the wage cut be submitted to an arbitration board. Most of the 1,300 operating employés belong to division 900 of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America.

WHOOPING COUGH TOTAL IS LARGEST SINCE JULY, 1926

More cases of whooping cough were reported in Chicago last month than in any July since 1926. This year 1,193 cases were reported, compared to 414 in July, 1937. There were eight deaths each month.

"Weather conditions which have caused many colds this year are probably responsible for most of the increase in cases," said officials of the board of health. "However, our campaign to combat the disease has given Chicago a low death average."

Parents were warned that whooping cough is particularly dangerous to small children, and that babies should be kept from contact with older children who might come in contact with infected playmates.

Charges Hull Twists Trade Treaty Facts

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee accused the state department today of spreading "misleading propaganda" in support of the trade agreements program. He made the charge in an open letter to Secretary of State Hull.

He also questioned the accuracy, in the light of world conditions and increased American exports of war materials, of Hull's contention that the agreements program has promoted world peace.

Hamilton commented on a letter which Hull wrote to Senator Pope [D., Idaho] July 27, in which the secretary of state noted that the United States imported more agricultural products than it exported in 1937, but exported more than it bought in the first half of 1938.

Discusses Grain Exports.

Hamilton noted that grain exports increased from $18,600,000 in the first half of 1937 to $142,400,000 in the first half of 1938 and said this alone accounted for the increase in farm exports.

He said the agriculture department had attributed increased exports of grain to bumper crops in this country and poor crops in other important producing nations.

Decreased farm imports were due, Hamilton said, "to the smaller domestic demand for raw materials due to the Roosevelt depression, lower prices based on larger yields, and the 1937-'38 bumper crops in this country, indicating nature's refusal to 'cooperate' with the Wallace farm program."

Then referring to memoranda which the state department has released, purporting to show advantages of trade concessions to various states, Hamilton said they contained "literally hundreds of deceptive and, in some cases, inaccurate statements."

Challenges Figures on Cuba.

He said one of these pamphlets reported that in 1937 exports of unmanufactured tobacco to Cuba were 446,000 pounds. Records of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce showed, he declared, that "we exported none whatever to Cuba in that year," instead importing 13,944,000 pounds.

Contending that relative figures on foreign trade issued by the state department invariably were misleading, Hamilton suggested that comparisons show all the years since 1929 and added:

"In 1937 our exports, in dollar value, to nontrade agreement countries were 65.7 per cent of the 1929 level, while to trade agreement countries our exports were but 63.5 per cent of the 1929 level."

WALLACE BUSY ON SUBSIDY PLAN TO MOVE WHEAT

Seeks Sale Abroad of 100,000,000 Bu.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace is working on a proposal to place 100,000,000 bushels of American wheat in world markets by means of an export subsidy, officials said today.

Details of the proposal are being guarded closely, it was said, and have been discussed only with a few other agriculture department officials and Secretary of State Hull. The policy of subsidizing exports has been criticized in the past by the state department chief. There was speculation as to whether Hull would carry objections to President Roosevelt.

Record Surplus in Sight.

The competitive situation developing in the world's grain markets, and prospects of a record breaking surplus of American wheat and declining domestic prices, were said to have influenced Wallace's undertaking.

Under a subsidy system, exporters would be permitted to sell wheat in foreign markets at prices low enough to meet competition from other countries. The government would pay the exporters the difference between these prices and the higher domestic price.

SEEK TO STEADY PRICES

Owning most of the world's surplus wheat, the United States and Canada are again engaged in an effort to stabilize wheat prices on the world market.

The United States government has established a relatively high loan value for wheat, averaging about 52 cents a bushel. It offers to advance loans to farmers in order to keep surplus grain from depressing market prices. The Canadian government has established a guaranteed minimum price for wheat, which is intended to prevent this year's plentiful supplies from forcing prices down too far.

Enough Wheat for World.

The United States has an exportable wheat surplus this season of 325 million bushels. Canada's surplus is placed at 245 million bushels.

These estimates make allowance for normal feed and seed requirements and carryover. The combined surplus of the two countries is enough to fill the import requirements of the entire world. An additional surplus, however, estimated at 400 million bushels, exists in other surplus producing countries, namely, Argentina, Australia, and Russia.

A comparatively low level for wheat during the coming 12 months is generally regarded as certain despite the American and Canadian governments' price supporting efforts.

How Banks Profit.

A bank, like any other business concern, makes a profit for its owners only if income exceeds outgo. The return on loans and investments must be more than interest on deposits and other expenses. Any losses on bad loans and investments reduce earnings.

In normal business times the interest on loans constitutes the largest source of a bank's income. Business is on the upgrade. Industries are expanding, and the money to pay for such expansion generally is borrowed from the bank. During such a period the bank cuts down its investments and uses most of its funds for business loans.

During depression years the opposite is true. Industry slows down, plants are closed and the demand for loans contracts. At such a time the bank shifts more of its funds into investments.

The funds must be kept working at all times if the bank is to earn money. To make his bank a paying proposition it thus becomes the banker's job to make good loans, invest other funds in safe investments, maintain an adequate cash reserve, and yet not have too much cash on hand.

Aluminum Company.

Investors' Guide: I am interested in stocks of the Aluminum Company of America. Any information you can give me will be appreciated.—Mrs. P. D.

Answer: The $236,000,000 Aluminum Company of America is by far the most important aluminum concern in the world. It is engaged in all phases of the business from mining ores containing aluminum to fabrication of products made from the metal.

The company is the only American producer of the metal aluminum. Bauxite ore, from which aluminum is obtained, is mined by the company in Arkansas, Alabama, Georgia, and in Dutch Guiana, South America. After being concentrated at the company's chemical plants, the aluminum ore is smelted by an electrolytic process. Company smelters are located at Niagara Falls and Massena, N. Y.; Alcoa, Tenn., and Badin, N. C.

The refined aluminum is sold to other producers of aluminum products or fabricated by the company's subsidiaries. Many industries consume the metal. About 33 per cent of total output is used by various transportation industries, including automobiles, the railroads, and airplane companies. Makers of cooking utensils take 16 per cent and makers of machinery and electrical appliances use 11 per cent. Another 12 per cent is used by makers of various types of electrical conductors.

The United States department of justice began an attempt early in 1937 to dissolve this company on the grounds that it is a monopoly in violation of anti-trust laws and has the power to fix prices arbitrarily. The case is still in the courts.

The company earned $27,622,749, or $13.29 a share, in 1937; $20,866,939, or $8.65 a share, in 1936, and $9,571,206, or 55 cents a share, in 1935. Loss was incurred in only one depression year, but the full $6 preferred dividend was not covered in four of the depression years.

Capital stock outstanding includes 1,340,823 shares of 6 per cent $100 par cumulative preferred and 1,472,625 shares of no par common. The preferred is $3.75 a share in arrears on dividends. No cash dividends have been paid on the common stock since 1925.

Current assets were $48,354,687 and current liabilities were $25,854,286 at the end of 1937.

CHICAGO GRAIN FIRM TRANSFERS BRANCH OFFICES

The Bartlett Frazier company, Chicago grain and commission house, will transfer control and operation of nine branch offices to Thomas & McKinnon. C. D. Sturtevant, president of Bartlett Frazier, announced the decision yesterday.

The move is in line with the tendency among stock and commodity houses to adjust leased wire systems to the volume of business. Sturtevant said his firm would limit its operations to the territory within which it operates terminal elevators.

The branch offices being transferred to Thomson & McKinnon are those in New York, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Toledo, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, and Duluth.

Buenos Aires Will Get Bulk of Huge Loan

BY HAROLD TATAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 14.—The $30,000,000 bond issue to be floated by Argentina will be used in part to meet the cost of the "widest and most deserted avenue in the world." The issue, scheduled for offering next Thursday, was approved Friday night by the chamber of deputies.

Need for the loan was brought about by the spending orgy in the last year of former President Justo's administration, it is said. The former administration apparently believed that the prosperity then being enjoyed by the republic was destined to continue indefinitely.

Of the proposed issue 70 per cent will be loaned to Buenos Aires for street improvement purposes. The other 30 per cent will be applied to the Argentine government's improvement program.

Avenue 450 Feet Across.

The Buenos Aires street, a new Avenue Nueve de Julio [Ninth of July] was conceived by Dr. Mariano de Vedia y Mitre, former mayor. It will be 450.9 feet wide.

If completed, the Buenos Aires artery will cut a swath through the heart of the city. A short extension of the Avenue Nueve de Julio was cleared and opened last October. Since then it has become a parking place for automobiles and one of the "wide open spaces of Argentina" popularized by travel writers.

Dr. Vedia, in proposing the superavenue, apparently did not object to following in the footsteps of the former federal administration. He is a social leader and a gifted writer [his translations of Shakespeare and of Oscar Wilde's poems are regarded here as masterpieces], but a poor business man. It is said he thinks in billions. The cost of the program did not worry him.

Offer Bills to Reduce Width.

At present, while Dr. Vedia is touring Europe, the Argentine congress is faced with bills seeking to reduce the width of the avenue by two-thirds and to sell to the public the land which thus may be freed. Another bill would postpone the completion of the avenue until the grandsons of those now living could shoulder the burden of its cost.

Buenos Aires financiers are expressing surprise that the $30,000,000 loan should be issued in New York at a time when it is alleged New York banking houses demand an issue price of 87 for a 4½ per cent loan. In the Argentine capital 4½ per cent obligations stand at 92 in the market. This, local financiers claim, indicates that the government could raise the money more economically at home.

FINDS VEIN OF GOLD MISSED BY 50 FEET TWENTY YEARS AGO

Ketchikan, Alaska, Aug. 14.—[Special.]—H. G. Wilcox, engineer for New York and Pittsburgh capitalists, said today he had found gold ore 200 feet from the surface of the Flagstaff mine, north of Ketchikan. Eighteen men have been at work on the project since last November. Wilcox said the ore was found by extending only fifty feet an old tunnel driven twenty years ago. He revealed that the dip of surface ore was at a sharper angle than had been figured by the original owners.

Crop Scarcity Policy Lashed by Educator

A common charge against the Roosevelt administration—that it disregards the future in short-sighted emergency actions—is supported in a statistical study of supply and demand published yesterday.

The author is Dr. Henry Schultz, University of Chicago professor of economics. His work, called "The Theory and Measurement of Demand," and published by the University Press, contains the results of an eight year investigation of crops.

Per Capita Demand Falls.

The scarcity program of the Agricultural Adjustment administration is doomed to failure by present trends, Dr. Schultz holds. He supports this conclusion by demonstrating that the individual or per capita demand for such basic crops as corn, wheat, cotton, and sugar has declined steadily since the world war.

He attributes this to changes in diet habits. One, he explained, was the reduced need of energy building foods as more and more people turned from rural to urban life, where physical activity is lessened.

The replacement of horses and mules with automobiles and tractors, more efficient feeding of meat animals, higher tariffs, and the substitution of wheat for corn in the cotton states are named as other factors in the decreasing demand. All evidence, said Dr. Schultz, points to a continuation of the causes now depressing the demand.

Predicts Impoverishment.

Thus, he explained, the AAA's attempt to protect the farmer's market by limiting his production will give only temporary relief, since the need of crop curtailment will become greater as the demand becomes smaller. Impoverishment of the farmer is visualized as a result.

"If this downward shift is not retarded," said Dr. Schultz, "we shall in the future need relatively fewer farmers and probably fewer farms, which will probably lead to a veritable agricultural revolution."

SLOW PROGRESS IS CONTINUING IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Labor Day Expected to Mark Upturn.

Conditions in the steel industry continue to show slow improvement, the magazine Steel said yesterday. The rapid rise in operating rates of recent weeks has been checked, but this is considered mainly a corrective measure.

"With Labor day only three weeks away many observers are setting that date as the starting point of the substantial improvement that has been looked forward to for months," Steel continued.

August Bookings Improve.

"August bookings have been at a better rate than in July and that, in turn, exceeded the June rate, although each rise was small."

Steel estimated ingot production last week at 40 per cent of capacity, unchanged from the preceding week despite sharp declines at Pittsburgh and Chicago. Chicago production fell 4.5 points to 33.5 per cent of theoretical capacity. The Pittsburgh rate was reduced 3 points to 30 per cent, Steel said. These declines were offset by good gains in almost all other steel making centers.

Scrap Markets Weaker.

Scrap markets showed a softer tone last week. Steel's scrap composite price declined 5 cents to $14.58 a ton.

"World conditions show little change, Great Britain's markets being depressed," Steel concluded, "and five British blast furnaces have been blown out. Italy will join the international wire syndicate. South Africa is considering anti-dumping duties."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Live Stock Vaccinated

Aug. 14, 1938.

TWENTY-SEVEN head of horses and mules have been vaccinated within the last few days at the Du Page county farm to protect them against sleeping sickness [encephalomyelitis], a serious malady that is rapidly spreading over northern Illinois. So far none of the animals shows symptoms of the disease, but official reports sent out from Springfield Friday show that disease is in sections not far from the farm. Veterinarians have found sleeping sickness among horses in sixteen Illinois counties within the last few weeks, most of them in the northern half of the state.

With the disease coming nearer and nearer the farm, men in charge of the horses are taking every possible precaution to protect the animals. Vaccine was rushed to the farm Friday to start immunizing the animals against the disease, which is carried by mosquitoes and possibly biting flies, according to investigators.

Windows Are Screened.

In addition to using vaccine, screens have been placed over the windows and doors of the barn where the riding horses are kept. The work horses are used during the day and turned in the pasture at night.

Spray materials also are being applied to the animals' bodies several times daily to protect them from mosquitoes and biting flies.

For horses and mules running on pastures farmers are advised to use a special mixture to keep the mosquitoes and flies away. In a five year test the following home made formula has been used successfully at the state experiment station: Fish oil [cold pressed fish oil is best], 100 parts; oil of tar [must be from pine trees], 50 parts; crude carbolic acid, 1 part.

The material is mixed thoroughly and applied with a paint brush by brushing with the hair, not against. The preparation is sticky and will irritate the animal's skin under harness and collar, and must not be used on horses or mules that are being worked. Applications made once a week are considered sufficient unless mosquitoes and flies are numerous and persistently bite the animals.

Chick Embryo Used.

To obtain immunity against sleeping sickness as soon as possible, Dr. Harry Caldwell, the farme's veterinarian, vaccinated the riding horses, work animals, including two mules, and a colt with vaccine made from material grown on the embryo of a chicken. He said that for some time veterinarians generally had been using a vaccine made from growing the virus on the tissue of a horse's brain. Vaccine produced in this way requires several weeks, usually about thirty days, to produce immunity. The new kind of material produced on chick embryo, he finds, will produce immunity in a much shorter period of time, usually in about seven days.

The method followed in vaccinating the horses and mules at the farm was to inject 10 cubic centimeters of the vaccine into the animal's chest. The injection was made with a hypodermic needle. The colt was given an injection half the size used on the mature animals, or 5 cubic centimeters. Dr. Caldwell will repeat the injections, using the same amount of material, in seven days.

Good results have been obtained by giving the animals two "shots" a week apart. Where this procedure is followed with the vaccine produced on chick embryo, animals usually are safe from bites of mosquitoes carrying the disease in about a week after the vaccination.

Investigators report to Dr. Caldwell that the vaccine can be used effectively and safely on all mature horses and on colts that are four months old or older. Mares nursing colts or mares with foal can be vaccinated with no ill effects. Horses may safely be ridden or worked in the field immediately after being vaccinated, according to investigators.

Dewey to Start Trial of Tammany Leader Today—Co-Defendant to Help State in Policy Racket Case

charged with being the political fixer for Manhattan's 100 million dollar a year policy racket. Hines is a Tammany leader. Dewey's chief witness is expected to be Richard (Dixie) Davis (second from right), who has pleaded guilty in the case. Davis' sweetheart, Hope Dare (right) helped persuade him to turn state's evidence. (Story on page 6.)

Four western tiger cubs snarling as photographer invaded cage at Brookfield zoo yesterday to take first picture of them. The cubs are three weeks old and are kept hidden in their box by Jewel, their mother. Crowds at the zoo have been able to get an occasional glimpse of them.

Two commercial artists, Scott Tiedman (upper left) and Bruce Wells (in other pictures), volunteered to see what two mint juleps apiece would do to their driving ability. Tests were arranged by Chicago Motor club and made on apparatus which gauges qualities needed by autoist in modern trafic. Pictures of tests show how alcohol dulled judgments and responses.
